STATE CONSIDERS MOVE TO REOPEN O'MALLEY DEAL IN FEDERAL COURT

Plea Might Be Made to Set Aside Notorious Compromise as Fraudulent in Light of Kansas City Indictments.

FINAL JUDGMENT NOT YET ENTERED

Legality of Collecting $10,000,000 in Excess Premiums, of Which Companies Got Lion's Share, Never Established.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 8.—The State Insurance Department, it was learned authoritatively today, is looking into the possibility of reopening the Federal Court case at Kansas City in which the notorious O'Malley compromise of fire insurance rates was made.

This may be done through a motion by Ray B. Lucas, State Superintendent of Insurance, to have the whole transaction set aside as fraudulent. The plea might be made that the circumstances of the compromise, as disclosed by the indictment at Kansas City yesterday of Boss Thomas J. Pendergast and former Insurance Superintendent R. Emmet O'Malley, constituted a fraud on the Court.

An official statement on the department's plans cannot be obtained until Lucas returns from a brief vacation at Tucson, Ariz.

The compromise, approved in February, 1936, by Judges Kimbrough Stone, Merrill E. Otis and Albert L. Reeves, sitting as a three-Judge court, did not amount to final judgment in the litigation. Final judgment has not been entered and distribution of the impounded funds by a custodian is still in progress.

Court Accepted Stipulations.

Approval of the compromise by the Court was effected through acceptance of stipulations entered into by O'Malley and the 137 stock fire insurance companies. The Court had in the record before it only the representations made by the companies, joined in by O'Malley as the presumed representative of the interests of the policyholders.

One of the legal questions being considered by the Insurance Department is whether the 16 2-3 per cent rate increase was collected legally. Joseph B. Thompson, Insurance Superintendent before O'Malley, had suspended it. The companies, in 137 separate injunction suits, which, in effect, were consolidated in Federal Court at Kansas City, sought to restrain Thompson from interfering with collection of the increased charge. Temporary injunctions were issued, which were in effect until the compromise was accepted.

There never has been final judicial determination of the companies' legal right to collect the increase.

Another question arising is whether the Court could compel the companies to make restitution in full to policyholders of the refunds they received under the stipulation.

Larger Questions Involved.

The larger aspects of what the consequences of the Pendergast-O'Malley indictments may be are easily discerned by those who are familiar with the long history of the insurance rate litigation, out of which this dramatic episode has grown. One question is the possible effect if fraud is proved in the stipulation that gave back to the 137 companies the lion's share of approximately $10,000,000 of impounded premiums, at the expense of the policyholders.

The allegations against O'Malley simply mean that, if they are true, O'Malley, a public official, was bribed; that the $62,500 out of the Charles R. Street "mystery fund" that is alleged to have been paid to him was, if in fact he received it, the price of his assent to the compromise stipulation. And if it should be proved that O'Malley was corrupted, it necessarily follows that the money which corrupted him was that which the insurance companies, the other party to the stipulations, contributed to the Street fund of some $460,000.

If the allegations of the indictment are true—and the keenest agents of the Intelligence Unit of the Treasury Department helped to produce the evidence on which they were voted—the compromise stipulation was not a bona fide agree-

Indictment Tests Loyalty Of Pendergast Followers

'Boss Tom,' in Hands of Friends, Regards Himself as Victim of Foes Within His Party.

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1939, Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8.—Boss Thomas J. Pendergast was in the hands of his friends today. He has many. Now, for the first time in his long political career, his sensational indictment and its implications afford him an accurate index of the inexorable political definition of "loyalty."

His foes—and they are not few—were on top of the world. The impartial, cold statements of the indictment itself, which charged, in effect, that in 1935 and 1936 he got $315,000 for putting the notorious insurance rate compromise over for the companies and omitted to include it on his Federal income tax returns speaks for itself.

He Receives News Calmly.

Informed by the writer of the indictments, he received the news with outward composure, refrained from public comment. He had seen the handwriting on the wall as the grand jury summoned his associates and business acquaintances. It is no secret among his intimates.

However, Pendergast, or 'T. J.," as he is called by associates, feels sincerely that he is the victim of "political jobbery," regards political foes within his own party as the instigators of the investigation, regardless of the merits or demerits of the grand jury's findings.

Pendergast has previously publicly read Gov. Stark, who repeatedly sought and finally obtained his support, out of the party—in so far as he was concerned. His denunciation was issued on receipt of a congratulatory telegram from Stark on the Pendergast triumph in the last municipal election here, conducted under a Board of Election Commissioners selected by the Governor in disregard of the recommendation of Pendergast.

Arranges Bond Immediately.

He met the immediate issue without wasting time. Promptly he summoned his lawyers, John G. Madden, chairman of the Jackson County Democratic Committee, and R. R. Brewster, widely known Republican attorney. He told them to get the formalities over with at once. Indignantly, he rejected a suggestion to go to the United States Marshal's office by way of a freight elevator to avoid photographers at the passenger elevator entrance. "I won't pose for a picture, but I've never hidden my face to any man, and I never will," Pendergast said.

Within an hour bond had been arranged, returnable April 24, and Pendergast was on hand, accompanied by his son, T. J. Pendergast, and his lifelong friend, Thomas McGee, insurance broker, who signed his bond.

His son, nephew, friends, even his lawyers, stood with faces averted as he submitted to the ignominy of being fingerprinted—just another set for the archives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

He tried to comfort them. He even joked with the Deputy Mar-

LINDBERGH SAILS FOR U. S.; REPORTED ON BUSINESS TRIP

Refuses to Answer Questions of Reporters; His Wife Does Not Accompany Him.

CHERBOURG, France, April 8 AP).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh sailed today on the liner Aquitania for his first visit to the United States in more than a year.

Friends in London said he was making a business trip. Mrs. Lindbergh did not accompany her husband.

The Colonel hurried from the second special boat train from Paris directly to a tender which took him to the liner. He took unusual precautions to avoid being seen and embarked ahead of other passengers.

A French woman in Cherbourg maritime station at first had been identified as Mrs. Lindbergh, leading to reports that the Colonel had sailed with his wife.

Newspaper men who managed to talk briefly with Lindbergh before the tender left the dock received only the answer, "I am sorry," to their questions.

O'MALLEY GIVES UP, POSTS BOND AT KANSAS CITY

Former State Insurance Commissioner to Be Arraigned April 24 on Tax Evasion Indictment.

NO STATEMENT TO MAKE AT THIS TIME

Grand Jury Recesses Till April 17 to Give Members Time to Attend to Personal Affairs.

By SAM J. SHELTON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8.—R. Emmett O'Malley, former State Insurance Commissioner, surrendered at the United States Marshal's office this morning on the indictment returned yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury charging he received $62,500 out of the $460,000 pay off for the insurance rate compromise and evaded income tax on that amount in the two years 1935 and 1936. He was accompanied by his attorney, Jerome Walsh. O'Malley, who had been in Washington, returned to Kansas City last night by airplane.

He gave bond for $10,000 before United States Commissioner Charles H. Thompson for his appearance April 24, for arraignment. Signing the bond as security was the Central Surety and Insurance Corporation, the same bonding company that supplied bond yesterday for Boss Thomas J. Pendergast when he surrendered on an indictment.

O'Malley told the Post-Dispatch correspondent that he had no statement to make.

"You realize the circumstances," he said, "I have been away and will have to spend two or three days reading what has been said by others."

City Water Department Chief.

Appointed head of the State Insurance Department by Gov. Guy B. Park in 1933 at the behest of Pendergast, O'Malley was made Water Commissioner of Kansas City at the bidding of the boss when Gov. Lloyd C. Stark fired him from the State position Oct. 19, 1937. He still has charge of the Water Department.

O'Malley, 65 years old, about the same age as Pendergast, made his way up in Kansas City through the school of hard knocks, the same as his mentor. He came here from nearby Leavenworth, Kan., when he was 16.

He has always been a loyal Pendergast partisan. He served as a City Council member from 1908 until 1912 and as a member of the Election Board under Gov. Frederick D. Gardner. Often O'Malley was the storm center of controversies, but Pendergast always stuck by him.

O'Malley had gone to Washington recently. It was reported that he made the trip in a last-minute effort to arrange some compromise of the tax case.

Reverbations of Indictment.

Reverbations from the stunning indictment of Pendergast rolled over Missouri today, sounding loudest in political quarters getting set for the battle of 1940.

It is not only the politicians, however, who are eyeing with concern the Federal grand jury's action, for the implications of what happened in Kansas City yesterday are dawning on business men and average citizens. It is most significant that what was done quietly and speedily in the report of the grand jury to Judge Otis is exactly what many persons for years had said could not be done.

The collapse of the Boss' power to command political protection against all hazards shocked and amazed his followers. In the small group of the one-time faithful who gathered in the United States Commissioner's office to see him sign his bond were some who gravely shook their heads and said, "It's too bad," adding they "never thought Tom would get caught in anything like that." The indictment charges Pendergast received $315,000 of the $460,000 "pay off" fund and that he failed to report it in his income tax returns.

Of vital interest to many persons in Kansas City and elsewhere in the State was District Attorney Milligan's cryptic statement yesterday announcing the "mystery fund has been entirely solved," and adding, seemingly with deep significance: "It is possible that further investigation may involve other persons individually or in conspiracies to evade income taxes, for in a sense this is only the beginning."

Milligan Going Ahead.

Already there is much talk in Kansas City as to just what this stern and resourceful Federal prosecutor had in mind, and some names are being whispered around. Milligan lost no time yesterday

HULL CONDEMNS ITALY'S ACTION AS THREAT TO PEACE

Violent Invasion "Violates Will of All Peoples That Their Governments Shall Lead."

CONSULTS ROOSEVELT ABOUT STATEMENT

Secretary Says Incident Further Destroys Confidence and Undermines World Stability.

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull, in a statement approved by President Roosevelt, said today "The forcible and violent invasion of Albania is unquestionably an additional threat to the peace of the world."

The invasion, Hull said, "violates the will of all peoples in the world that their Governments shall lead them, not toward war, but along paths of peace."

The Secretary condemned Italy's action after consulting with the President by telephone.

Hull is keeping in close touch with President Roosevelt, communicating to him by telephone the latest news from a half dozen European capitals. Roosevelt is vacationing in Warm Springs, Ga.

Arms Embargo Discussed.

Hull indicated belief, without expressing a definite opinion, that Italy had violated the Kellogg anti-war pact, signed by both Italy and Albania. He indicated further that an arms embargo against Italy, under the Neutrality Act, was under discussion by this Government's officials but said such a move had not been considered officially at length thus far.

The United States not long ago condemned the use of force after recent crises resulting from action of Italy's totalitarian ally, Germany.

Another high Government official said the administration considered Mussolini's Albanian coup a prelude to a more serious European crisis. This official declared that both the State and War Departments were inclined to the view that Hitler might, possibly in a few days, precipitate a crisis over Danzig.

Both Germany and Italy are convinced, this source said, that Great Britain was guilty of a "monumental bluff" in negotiating an alliance with Poland and otherwise acting to "stop Hitler."

Some dispatches have told of new German troop movements toward Poland.

Hull, at his press conference, said he had no information on such movements.

Text of Statement.

The text of Hull's statement:

"The forcible and violent invasion of Albania is unquestionably an additional threat to the peace of the world. It would be shortsighted not to take notice of this further development.

"Any threat to peace seriously concerns all nations; and violates the will of all peoples in the world that their governments shall lead them, not toward war, but along paths of peace.

"It is scarcely necessary to add that the inevitable effect of the incident, taken with other similar incidents, is further to destroy confidence and to undermine economic stability in every country in the world, thus affecting our own welfare."

The United States is in a better legal position to protest against Italy's invasion of Albania than are Britain and France. Those nations, along with Italy and Japan, signed a declaration reached by a council of their Ambassadors in Paris in 1921, recognizing that the "violation of Albania's frontiers would constitute a menace for the strategical security of Italy."

The United States withdrew from the Council some months before the declaration was made, however, and so is not in the position of agreeing that Italy has special interests in Albania.

Questions of Recognition.

Decisions on questions of recognition of the new status in Albania and the continuance of the United States Legation in Tirana or its transformation into a consulate, probably will be put over to next week when the State Department

NEW YORK STOCKS SLUMP $1 TO $5; HEAVY SELLING

Trading Fast at Brief Session; Ticker Two or Three Minutes Behind.

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP). — Heavy selling today toppled stocks $1 to $5 a share in Wall Street, only important world market to resume trading since the Italian invasion of Albania. European security markets were closed for week-end and Easter holidays.

Throughout the two-hour session, the trading pace was fast, sometimes leaving the stock ticker lagging two or three minutes behind transactions on the floor of the exchange.

The steep fall of security prices since mid-March imparted strong momentum to the decline, undermining margin trading accounts and forcing selling on each new slide.

At the close, du Pont was down $5 at $128.50, United States Steel off nearly $3 at $45.12, Chrysler $5.75 at $50.12 and American Telephone $3 at $150.

NAZI PRESSURE PUT ON POLAND TO BAR ALLIANCE

Ribbentrop Talks to Polish Envoy for Hour—Press Warns Against British Agreement.

BERLIN, April 8 (AP). — Germany applied strong diplomatic pressure on Poland today and published newspaper threats while most of Europe's attention was centered on Albania.

The German campaign coincided with the return home of Polish Foreign Minister Col. Joseph Beck from London where he concluded an anti-aggression defensive alliance with Great Britain.

Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop talked to Joseph Lipsky the Polish Ambassador for a full hour before Ribbentrop started on a brief Easter vacation.

At Warsaw it was intimated that the German Embassy was underscoring all that Chancellor Hitler's Foreign Minister had told the Polish Ambassador in Berlin.

"A Pact With Bolshevism."

Meanwhile the afternoon press, while still giving front-page prominence to the "double slap at the democracies"—the Italian invasion of Albania and Nationalist Spain's adherence to the anti-Communist pact—continued to warn Poland in no uncertain terms. Comment of the Berlin newspaper Nachtausgabe was typical:

"Whoever concludes a treaty with England against Germany, thereby simultaneously makes a pact with Bolshevism.

"The states of Europe have today but to choose between English policy against Germany or a policy of peace in pursuance of which they will automatically have Germany as their ally."

Logical Move in Spain.

Nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco's acceptance of the accord against the Communist International was interpreted as "the only logical outcome" of the Spanish war and as killing "last-minute efforts" by the western democracies to bring Spain into their camp.

It was pointed out that Spain joined Germany, Italy, Japan, Hungary and Manchoukuo in the anti-Communist agreement "at the very moment when new efforts are being undertaken to set up a democratic front and to bring it in line with Moscow," and when Great Britain felt it had won over Poland to an alliance.

Dictator Expected to Extend His Empire Across Adriatic — Many Inhabitants Flee to Hills to Carry on Warfare.

INVADERS CONTROL ALL MAJOR POINTS

Civil and Religious Authorities Greet Conquerors—New Government to Be Set Up — Order Follows Night of Terror.

ROME, April 8 (AP). — The Italian Government tonight published the appeal of several Albanian leaders asking King Vittorio Emanuele to assume "the crown of Albania."

This followed the entry of an Italian army of occupation into conquered Tirana, capital of leaderless and defenseless Albania, and the arrival there of Count Ciano, Premier Mussolini's son-in-law, to establish Italy's rule.

It was regarded as an indication Premier Mussolini would offer the title of King of Albania to the Italian sovereign as a means of cementing Rome's spread of empire across the Adriatic Sea.

FLORINA, Greece, April 8 (AP). —King Zog of Albania, in flight from the Italians, tonight joined his Queen, Geraldine, and 3-day-old Crown Prince, Skander, at a little inn at this Greek mountain village. The Queen and their baby had gone into exile ahead of Zog in a 14-hour dash over mountainous roads in an Albanian Red Cross ambulance.

It was believed the royal family would remain here at least overnight before seeking a more permanent refuge.

Both the Queen and her baby appeared to be in good health.

Italian Troops Occupy Tirana After Night of Terror.

TIRANA, April 8 (AP).—Italian troops occupied Tirana, capital of Albania, without hostile manifestation today after a night of disorder and the flight of King Zog to Greece.

The advance column rolled in from the coast, 25 miles away, just a little more than 24 hours after the invasion began. It was 9:30 a. m. (2:30 a. m., St. Louis time) when the first Italian soldiers entered the capital.

Bersagliere on motorcycles, faces and uniforms gray with dust and with cap feathers flying from steel helmets, were first to enter the city.

Albanians in the square before the Government offices applauded as the motorcycles roared out of the dust of the Durazzo-Tirana road. A group of students carrying an Italian flag marched down the road to meet the Italians. The tricolored Italian flag appeared on the city hall beside the red Albanian banner emblazoned with the black double eagle.

Army Takes to Hills.

An official Italian dispatch today said Italian troops had entered Scutari in Northwestern Albania. Scutari is on Lake Scutari, on the frontier between Albania and Yugoslavia.

Another dispatch said the Albanian prefect of Koritza, near the Greek frontier, had surrendered the city to Italy "in the name of the people" and was awaiting the arrival of Italian troops.

King Zog passed through Koritza early today.

The battered and beaten little Albanian army had retreated to the hills.

Albania was believed approaching the end of independence. Mussolini is expected to take Albania under Italy's protection, possibly as a province as they were 2000 years ago.

BRITISH PREMIER CUTS VACATION TO HURRY TO LONDON

Chamberlain Leaving Aberdeen by Train to Discuss Albania—To Reach His Capital Tomorrow.

CABINET GATHERS, TAKES NO ACTION

Notes That Situation Still Is 'Obscure'—Opposition Demands That Parliament be Reconvened.

LONDON, April 8 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain was to depart for London tonight from Castle Forbes, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, to confer with his Ministers on the Albanian situation, it was announced this afternoon. He had left London Thursday for Scotland for a fishing Easter vacation.

He arranged to leave Aberdeen by train at 7:35 o'clock (1:35 p. m., St. Louis time) and reach London tomorrow morning.

Announcement of Chamberlain's return followed quickly an emergency meeting of the cabinet in London.

After weighing the implications of Italy's invasion of Albania, the Ministers issued a formal statement declaring that the Albanian situation was "still obscure in regard to a number of important factors."

In informed quarters this was interpreted to mean that the Government had not decided to recall Parliament immediately, as had been demanded earlier by leaders of the opposition.

Parliament began its Easter recess Thursday to extend until April 18.

Ministers to Stay Close By.

The statement isued from 10 Downing Street after the cabinet session said it had been arranged "that Ministers concerned should remain in or near London for the present" because of "obscurity" in the Adriatic situation.

The Prime Minister, with whom rests the decision whether to recall Parliament for emergency discussions, was understood to be considering the demands of Labor and Liberal leaders that Parliament be called immediately.

In some quarters it was believed he would reconvene Parliament about the middle of next week.

During the extraordinary Cabinet session Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition in the House of Commons, called at Downing street and left a note demanding the immediate call of Parliament.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal opposition leader in the House of Commons, and the Marquess of Crewe, Liberal leader in the House of Lords, telegraphed Chamberlain urging that Parliament be recalled to consider proposals for dealing with the situation created by "shameful Italian invasion of Albania," which, they said, "constitutes a fresh and dangerous assault on the liberties of Europe by the axis Powers."

Halifax Gives Report.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax earlier had given a detailed report on the Albanian invasion to the Cabinet.

Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, presided in the absence of Chamberlain.

Ten cabinet members, including five defense ministers, attended the meeting. They were Simon; Halifax; Lord Chatfield, Minister for Coordination of Defense; Earl Stanhope, First Lord of the Admiralty; Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War; Sir Kingsley Wood, Secretary of Air; Sir John Anderson, Lord Privy Seal; Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare; Ernest Brown, Minister for Labor and National Service, and Earl De La Warr, president of the Board of Education.

Chambelain "sat in" on the meeting by telephone from Castle Forbes.

Halifax went to the Foreign Office 45 minutes before the meeting to get the latest official reports.

He conferred with Sir Robert Vansittart, the government's chief diplomatic adviser, before the cabinet considered the effect of Italy's invasion on the 1938 British-Italian agreement which included a pledge to maintain the status quo in the Mediterranean.

Britain May Keep Hands Off.

In view of Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons Thursday that Britain "has no direct interest in Albania, but has a general interest in the peace of the world," informed quarters believed Britain would keep hands off the Adriatic situation.

The Committee of Imperial Defense met but no special measures were announced. The admiralty said Easter leaves were not being canceled.

The British press generally regarded Italy's step as a reply to Chamberlain's efforts to form an anti-aggression bloc.

The Liberal News Chronicle said: "The British Government's dilatoriness plays directly into the hands of the dictators. While Whitehall dithers about Russia, Hitler and Mussolini act. In a few weeks Czecho-Slovakia, Memel and Albania have fallen to the axis Powers, but the sole fruit of British initiative so far is the agreement with Poland—a vital link in a full collective system but of doubtful advantage unless the chain is completed."

The pro-Government London Times said the Albanian invasion threatened to disturb the "harmony and stability of the Mediterranean."

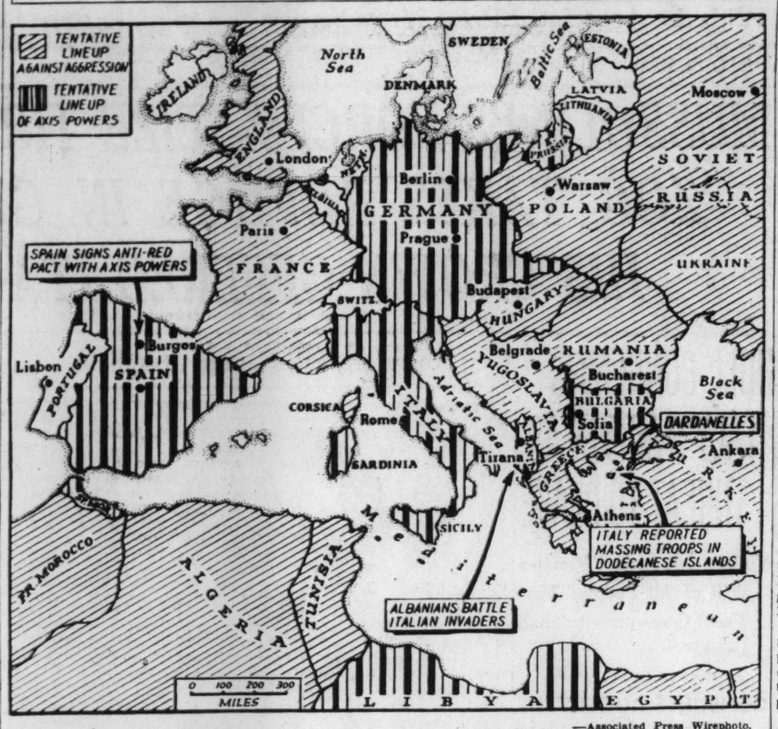

"On her own account and on behalf of others, she (Britain) has vital interests to defend in that area and every intention, if need be, of defending them," the Times said.

France Not Expected to Act Alone, Looks to Britain.

PARIS, April 8 (AP).—Foreign Office officials said last night that, for the time being at least, France was only indirectly concerned with Italy's invasion of Albania. Circles close to the Government expressed the opinion that if Great Britain should denounce the British-Italian accord to maintain the status quo in the Mediterranean, France would support Britain, but France alone could take no action.

The Rumanian Foreign Minister, Grigore Gafencu, was expected in Paris about April 26 after visiting in London and other capitals to discuss the situation and Rumania's final attitude in regard to the anti-aggression bloc the French and British are trying to build.

Albania's Queen, Safe In Greece, Tells of Flight

She and 3-Day-Old Son Make Trip in Ambulance—Hopes Invasion "Shocks World Into Action."

LONDON, April 8 (AP). — Queen Geraldine of Albania prayed today that the world would be "shocked into action" by Italy's invasion of "my tragic little country." The 23-year-old Queen, of American-Hungarian parentage, fled into Greece yesterday just two days after she had given birth to a son and heir to the Albanian crown.

"I left my husband leading his troops—his poor insignificant little army—into battle. What could Albania do against such armed might as that which ground down on us?"

In these words the Queen began her own story of her flight from Tirana, to the Star, London evening newspaper, by telephone from Florina, the Greek hamlet where she sought temporary refuge with her new-born son, Skander.

Talks From Sick-Bed.

Lying on a sick-bed in a primitive village hotel in Florina, with Skander on an improvised cot beside her, the Queen dictated her story to her grandmother, Madame D'Estrale D'Ekna, who repeated it over the telephone.

"I hope world public opinion is shocked into action by this invasion against my tragic little country," the Queen said.

Here her grandmother took up the story:

"Queen Geraldine did not want to leave the capital. She pleaded with her husband to let her stay. She begged him to allow her to be by his side to face whatever providence should bring to their country. 'Only let me be with you,' she said. 'We can face anything together. But to go—not knowing what is happening to you. No! No! Please let me remain.'

King Insisted She Go.

"The King was adamant. I know he would have liked nothing more than to have had her with him.

"But he ordered her to go. As war clouds were threatening, the preparations were made.

"A fleet of cars stood ready in the palace courtyard. One was converted into an ambulance for the Queen and little boy—heir to the throne that is no more.

"The baby was only a few hours old when we started on our journey. Guns had started to boom. The King gave the order to start.

"He told my granddaughter that it was for her safety and her safety only that he wished her to leave him.

"She was carried by stretcher from the palace. The baby was carried by a nurse.

"We were all of us in tears at the parting."

Trip to Florina Over Mountain Roads Requires 14 Hours.

ATHENS, April 8 (AP). — Queen Geraldine of Albania was tired and weak today after a 14-hour, 160-mile ride over tortuous mountain roads in an ambulance. She was attended by two doctors and three nurses.

She planned to continue to Salonika today. Two unmarried sisters of her husband, King Zog, arrived there last night.

The Queen's party left Tirana at dawn yesterday, accompanied by her American-born mother and a few Albanian guards. Mrs. Gladys Stewart Girault, the former Countess Nagy-Apponyi is the Queen's mother. Her father was the late banker and marshal of the Hungarian Court, Count Julius Nagy-Apponyi, who died in 1924. The Queen's grandmother was Virginia Harding of Virginia.

The party arrived at Florina about 7:30 p. m. yesterday.

Hungarians Proud of Queen's Courage on Rough Trip.

BUDAPEST, April 8 (AP). — Queen Geraldine of Albania was the heroine of Hungarians today.

She arose from her bed in Albania to flee with her baby in a hazardous 160-mile automobile journey over rough and winding roads to safety in Greece.

"What would you expect of a Hungarian girl?" asked beaming Magyars in clubs and coffee houses.

A little more than a year ago the Queen, then the Countess Geraldine Apponyi, was an office girl in the Hungarian National Museum at a reported salary of about 220 pengoe monthly, something less than $45.

GREEK DICTATOR CONFERS WITH MINISTERS IN ATHENS

Gen. Metaxas Interviews Envoys of European Powers on Seizure of Albania.

ATHENS, April 8 (AP).—Dictator General John Metaxas marshaled his Ministers and conferred with diplomats today on Italy's seizure of Albania.

Greek officials did not conceal their alarm over the Rome-Berlin axis drive into the strategic mountains of their northwestern neighbor.

TWO KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Flyers Were Stunting Near Moline, Ill.

MOLINE, Ill., April 8 (AP).—Allen Stamp, 24 years old, of East Moline, and Arnold Johnson, 25, of Moline were killed when a private plane piloted by Stamp crashed in a pasture 10 miles east of Moline this morning. The plane went into a tail spin.

The two flyers took off from the Moline airport at 9:15 o'clock and crashed half an hour later. Ernest Erdman, a farmer, said the flyers were stunting and lost control of the craft after executing a snap roll at about 2000 feet.

SOVIET PAPER SEES NO CHANCE FOR PEACE

Warns Russians of "Capitalist Encirclement," Says "Be Ready Any Hour."

MOSCOW, April 8 (AP).—The Soviet army newspaper, Red Star, warned the Russian public today not to assume that their present period of peace would last indefinitely.

"As long as capitalist encirclement exists, our peaceful life will remain only an interval between armed clashes with the world bourgeoisie," it said.

"Since its defeat in the first open clash with the armed Soviet people on civil war fronts (in 1920) the world bourgeoisie has not laid aside its weapons.

"Unceasing in its preparation for new intervention, it has done and is doing everything to weaken our strength and disrupt our military preparedness.

"Capitalist encirclement dreams of overthrowing Soviet power, drowning Socialism in the blood of millions of toilers and restoring slavery in our country.

"The Soviet Union is a pain in the eye of decaying capitalism. Imperialists of all colors consider the Soviet State as their principal enemy.

"One thing is inevitable—a decisive battle between Socialism and international capitalism is unavoidable.

"But we are ready to fight any aggressor . . . In the forthcoming struggle the Red army will fight to eliminate the underlying cause which produces the danger of military attack on the Soviet Union, that is to exterminate capitalist encirclement. It is necessary to be ready for this any day, any hour."

HULL CONDEMNS ITALY'S ACTION AS THREAT TO PEACE

will have had a chance to gather all the facts in the case.

Secretary Hull conferred yesterday with Faik Konitza, who considered his service here as Albanian Minister at an end. Konitza said he would burn his official records rather than turn them over to Italian officials, unless King Zog ordered otherwise. He issued a statement adding:

"I and many other Albanian intellectuals have dreamt of a close cultural, economic and political cooperation with Italy on an honorable basis. The elegant answer is a punch on our head.'

Secretary Hull said at his press conference that he desired to assemble all the facts before taking a position.

Americans at Legation.

Americans in Tirana are safe and are gathered at the United States legation, Minister Hugh G. Grant cabled Hull. There are 233 Americans in all Albania, the State Department calculated.

With Albania in the forefront of the administration's anxieties, other developments came to light indicating the Government's general concern over the European situation.

The State Department is seeking to induce the International Rubber Control Committee in London to increase rubber production so that a reserve supply can be built up in the United States available for wartime.

The army, at the suggestion of the State Department, has supplied 1550 gas masks to American diplomats, consuls, clerks and employes of United States embassies, legations and consulates in Europe.

Officials also regarded as significant the fact that $192,506,227 worth of gold flowed into the United States in the week ended March 31. Its owners obviously sent it here to place it outside possible war zones.

50,000 of Albanian Origin Appeal to Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP). — Count Curt de Montale, Albanian Consul-General in New York, said today that 50,000 Americans of Albanian origin had appealed to President Rosevelt, Pope Pius XII, Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Daladier to intervene "to save heroic Albania, a peaceful and defenseless country, from the ruthless and wholly unwarranted Fascist invasion."

Count de Montale said telegrams were received from all American Albanian societies asking them to join in the protest and appeal.

Roosevelt at Warm Springs; Talked to Europe by Phone.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt gave full indorsement today to Secretary of State Hull's statement that Italy's invasion of Albania constituted an "additional threat" to peace.

The President told a press conference he had talked by telephone with Europe and also had talked with Hull and approved Hull's statement. He said the statement spoke for itself.

YUGOSLAVS CLOSE BORDER; ANXIETY FELT IN BELGRADE

Government Tries to Reassure Country, Saying Italy Promised to Respect Its Interests.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, April 8 (AP).—Italy promised that Yugoslav interests would be respected in effecting the occupation of Albania, it was stated officially last night, but the Government, nevertheless, closed its border with Albania.

Increasing excitement was apparent here, although the Government continued to issue reassuring statements.

Official quarters said Yugoslavia was informed of the Italian intentions and that relations between the two countries were being "continued within the framework of the treaty of friendship." (An Italian-Yugoslav five-year non-aggression pact was signed March 23, 1937.)

Permission, however, was refused for special Yugoslav trains to depart for Tirana and from the border came reports that highway traffic across the frontier had suspended.

Regent Prince Paul consulted his ministers, and officials canceled Easter holiday plans.

Private comment was less confident than that by officials. The popular impression was that Italian action had a direct bearing on Yugoslav security.

Yugoslavs felt themselves cut off from the sea by Italian control of the narrows connecting the Adriatic and the Mediterranean, which would be a result of occupation of Albania.

The fear also was expressed that the position of Greece might become precarious and that, consequently, Yugoslavia's connection with the Aegean Sea through friendly territory might be cut.

bound most closely with those of the Rome-Berlin axis."

It said that any democratic effort to turn Spain against such a policy would be regarded as "an unfriendly act" and that the anti-Comitern powers "will always be on hand if Span's political integrity is threatened."

While Chancellor Hitler gave Premier Mussolini complete backing in the Albanian invasion, the controlled German press charged that King Zog of Albania had sold out especially to the British and hence was playing a "political traitor's role" toward Italy.

The Lokal Anzeiger said: "King Zog was too ambitious and unwise in his demands and aims. He thought that he could eventually free himself from Italian influence, not to rule over a really sound and independent Albania but to be able to draw upon Italy and other states for his inflated needs for money and power.

"Thus he yielded to influence of all kinds of agents from democratic states and betrayed Italy."

Hitler Paper Assails Powers.

Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, said that Mussolini had to act because recent developments in Albania had become "dangerous since the democratic adversaries of the axis powers sought to nestle down like fungi wherever German-Italian relations toward their neighbors appeared to show rifts."

It added: "We experienced this in Bohemia and Moravia, in Lithuania, in Rumania and in Poland — the same danger now existed for Italy in Albania. The lesson to be learned by the democracies from Albania is that the dynamics of the young political movements of central Europe cannot be broken up by intrigue and diplomatic maneuvers."

Because no papers were published here on Good Friday, the government-controlled radio repeated every hour reports of the "justice" of the Italian invasion of Albania "to safeguard vital Italian interests and to establish order and real peace in Europe."

Italians Capture Tirana; Zog Reported in Flight

darmes fired continuously to scare off looters who earlier had sacked the royal palace.

Italian bombers appeared again in the sky over Tirana shortly after dawn today and continued to fly low over the city as the troops entered.

Gen. Masse, commander of the column moving on Tirana, arrived soon behind the advance guard. He halted at the airport temporarily.

The Bersagliere were followed into Tirana by a tank corps, which rumbled through the principal square.

In front of the City Hall, Gen. Muty, commander of the advance guard, was greeted by Albanian civil and religious authorities.

The Italians were in command of all the principal points along the 170-mile coast.

Durazzo, San Giovanni di Medua and Valona were heavily damaged by naval bombardments and aerial bombings before Italian occupation. Santi Quaranta, another coastal city, also was in Italian hands.

A 44 to 1 Fight.

While regulars and vigilantes who had taken down their rifles and primitive weapons to fight a dogged, if losing battle, from behind stones, trees and mountain ambushes, the former Premier, Medhi Frasheri, addressed the nation by radio in impassioned tones:

"There are 44,000,000 Italians against 1,000,000 Albanians, but there will be heroic resistance, and when our men are dead, the Italians will have to face our women."

He angrily telegraphed to Premier Mussolini of Italy:

"We prefer death to dishonor."

Good roads from the coast to Tirana, built with funds provided by Italian loans, facilitated the Italian advance.

Zog broadcast an appeal to his people to fight for their independence, but they did not need any exhortations. They could do little against Italian bombardments, but they set to with primitive, tribal zeal and repeatedly pushed back Italian landing parties to the sea.

Appeal to Italian People.

The Tirana radio was used for an appeal to the Italian people, with a violent attack on the Fascist Government. The broadcast denied that Italian nationals in Albania had been attacked by Albanian bands as Italy had charged.

The Albanian news agency, Albagence, distributed today the text of the broadcast. The appeal, filed at the Italian-controlled telegraph office in Tirana, said:

"The regime of Mussolini, not satisfied with five years of war . . . for the one reason of foreign political grandeur, is today attacking a people of 1,000,000 inhabitants which in the course of centuries of history, although proud of its independence and liberty, has given proof of friendship toward the Italian people.

"The whole Albanian people, their arms in their hands, have opposed this unjust aggression with an unshakeable will to resist to the last drop of their blood.

"The Albanian people in this tragic moment are treasuring Mussolini's motto that a people which does not defend itself does not deserve to live.

"The Albanian people add to this motto that men, women and children will renew in this tragic hour the lesson of supreme heroism before the conscience of the civilized world."

ITALIAN PEOPLE HEAR OF INVASION AFTER OCCUPATION

ROME, April 8 (AP).—Count Galeazzo Ciano, Foreign Minister, arrived by airplane at Tirana, capital of Albania, at 11 a. m. (4 a. m. St. Louis time) today, a dispatch from Albania said.

Dispatches from Tirana said a small group of Italian officers and Albanian gendarmes had taken control in Tirana, capital of Albania, after King Zog had moved his Government to Elbasan, 25 miles south. They said order had been restored after a night of shooting, rioting and looting.

Extra editions of Italian newspapers in three-inch-high letters announced the news: "Tirana Occupied!"

An Italian dispatch reported the victory had been gained with the following Italian losses:

Twelve killed and 53 wounded in yesterday's debarkation at Durazzo, where the thrust at the mountain kingdom's capital was launched; eight sailors killed and 34 wounded in fighting in Durazzo; one sailor killed and 10 wounded at Santi Quaranta, near the Greek border.

Planes Transport Troops.

Dispatches said a regiment of grenadiers arrived at Tirana by airplane from Grottaglie, near Taranto. This was one of the first known cases of mass transportation of troops by plane from the Italian mainland.

Tirana's two newspapers published special editions this morning with the following headlines:

"Friendly Fascist troops commanded by General Guzzoni are re-establishing a new order in Albania."

"Many Albanian dignitaries went to the legation as a mark of respect to Italy and Il Duce, expressing their conviction that a new era is beginning in the history of Albania."

One dispatch, from Valona, stated the Italian troops had been received by the Albanian population with "manifestations of sympathy."

Foreign Minister Ciano had a long talk with the Earl of Perth, British Ambassador, and with the Yugoslav Minister.

Count Ciano was reported to have told Lord Perth that King Zog was to blame for Italy's action. Zog was pictured in the press as having tried to get Italian help to attack Yugoslavia.

The Foreign Minister also was understood to have assured the British Ambassador that Italy had no intention of doing anything that would violate the British-Italian Mediterranean agreement of 1938.

The press indicated that Britain's protest was not taken seriously.

Italians generally first learned of the action against Albania when special editions of the newspapers announced the occupation.

It mystified them, because for years they believed Albania was completely under Italian domination. There was little excitement in Rome and virtually no jubilation.

An early communique said Italian troops, after meeting stiff resistance at Durazzo, on the coast due west of Tirana, had advanced nearly 10 miles.

"Our troops have reached a point 15 kilometers (9.3 miles) from Durazzo on the River Shijak," it said, "where Zog's bands before retiring blew up a bridge constructed by Italians."

Admission of Resistance.

The reference apparently was to a bridge built by Italians under a public works contract with Albania.

The communique was Italy's first admission that its troops were meeting with strong opposition.

The Italians also reported they had occupied and passed Alessio, in northern Albania, southeast of the Port of San Giovanni di Medua, and occupied Delvino, in the south near the Albanian-Greek border.

Shipments of troops across the Adriatic were continuing.

There were widespread independent reports of heavy fighting and destructive bombardments of Albanian towns, but Italy's official statements made no mention of these.

Zog's Reported Terms.

King Zog, who two days ago pinned proud hopes for his dynasty on a new-born son and heir, was reported to have offered to accept an Italian protectorate for his country if he were permitted to retain the monarchy and a degree of autonomy.

His offer was transmitted to Premier Mussolini in Rome while the press thundered that Zog was a scoundrel who had tried to get Italy to help him attack his Yugoslav neighbors.

Official communiques did not disclose the total number of men invading Albania. But a few days ago from 20,000 to 25,000 Italian soldiers were reported concentrated at Bari, 440 miles across the Adriatic from the Albanian port of Durazzo, and at Brindisi, half that distance from Albania. Since then there have been reports of additional troop movements.

The Fascist press unanimously contended that the occupation of Albania was "Italy's right" and was necessary for the defense of its vital interests. It insisted the step was taken "for the well-being of the Albanian people" as well as to preserve peace in Europe.

Diplomats watching what many called "Mussolini's turn" at Rome-Berlin axis action, wondered whether Italy also would move against the Greek island of Corfu, off the southern tip of Albania. Italy shelled and temporarily occupied Corfu in a dispute with Greece in 1923.

Corfu is considered of strategic value in control of the mouth of the Adriatic. Increase of such control was one of the reasons advanced by Italy to justify its invasion of Albania.

Hundreds of Italians had been removed from Albania before the Fascist troops sailed from Brindisi and Bari.

How News Was Given.

Italian action against Albania had been expected for days, but official secrecy was not broken until yesterday morning with publication of a communique:

"During recent days and while conversations were taking place between the Italian Government and King Zog for the conclusion of a new and closer agreement, threatening demonstrations were carried out at Tirana and elsewhere by groups of armed bands which greatly endangered the personal safety of Italians living in Albania.

"Yesterday morning, April 6, our warships brought back to the fatherland from Durazzo and Valona many hundreds of compatriots, including women and children. Yesterday evening contingents of Italian troops left Brindisi and Bari for Albania.

"At the same time there left the First Naval Squadron, which this morning at dawn was cruising along the Albanian coast from Santi Quaranta to San Giovanni di Medua.

"Aerial Squadron 'A' was mobilized."

Communications between Rome and Tirana were suspended except for the single radio-telephone line which was taken over exclusively for Italian Government calls.

AUTO DRIVEN BY ST. LOUISAN KILLS MAN NEAR MARSHFIELD

Robert A. Willier Absolved, Coroner Holding Accident on Highway Unavoidable.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARSHFIELD, Mo., April 8. — An automobile driven by Robert A. Willier of St. Louis, advertising manager of the Wabash Railway, struck and killed Will Beard, farm hand, on Highway 66, six miles west of here last night.

Beard, 57 years old, apparently became confused and walked in front of his automobile Willier said. Coroner K. K. Kelley of Webster County said it was an unavoidable accident and absolved Willier of any responsibility. No inquest will be held. Mr. and Mrs. Willier, who live at 5030A Oleatha avenue, St. Louis, were en route to Springfield to spend the Easter holiday with his family.

MOSLEMS TURNING AGAINST ITALIANS, FRANCE DECLARES

Anti-Mussolini Demonstrations in Tunisia Follow Rome's Appeal for Stand Against French.

PARIS, April 8 (AP).—Italy's invasion of the Moslem Kingdom of Albania was reported in Paris today to have so strengthened French and British empires in the Mediterranean that it may prove a boomerang for Premier Mussolini.

"This means the end of Italy as the self-styled protector of Islam," said a high official in the French Colonial office.

In Syria, where French failure to push through a 1936 Syrian independence treaty led to disorders and strikes which French troops had to quell, the reaction was immediate.

Syrian Leader Assails Italy.

Faris El Khouri, president of the Syrian Parliament and outstanding leader of the nationalist bloc which has led the anti-French agitation, issued a scathing attack on Italy. He indicated his bloc would now co-operate with the French.

"Italy's pretentions of protecting our Moslems now reminds us of the story of the lion which defends the prey he does not intend to divide with others," El Khouri said.

Even as Italian troops fought their way into the little Mohammedan state on the Adriatic, the Italian station at Tripoli, Libya, broadcast an appeal in Arabic for Moslems in Tunisia, France's protectorate, to make a demonstration next Sunday against the French. French observers interpreted the broadcast as a call for an Arab revolt.

Demonstrations in Tunisia.

Immediately after the broadcast there were a number of anti-Italian demonstrations by Arabs in Tunisian cities, however, and various Moslem organizations telegraphed declarations of loyalty to the French Resident General's office in Tunis.

Arab sources in Paris said Italy's Albanian invasion would "cancel" much of her recent anti-French and anti-British propaganda in Moslem parts of the French and British empires.

Parts of the Paris press declared, however, that to solidify this reaction, Britain and France must do more than "shrug their shoulders" at Italian aggression.

As a whole the French press did not view Italy's attack on Albania as something which in itself would set off the war Europe fears.

Italy's Right to Intervene.

One commentator pointed out that Italy, by an agreement of the conference of Ambassadors of World War Allies in 1921, became the "policeman of Albania" with the right to intervene.

But almost the entire press urged the Government to rush negotiations to solidify the Eastern "Stop Hitler" bloc.

Meanwhile, George Peyani, leader of the Albanian opposition to King Zog's government and head of a delegation of political exiles in Paris, called at the Albanian legation to announce his unity with Zog against Italy.

Heretofore a bitter opponent of Zog's, Peyani praised the King's military abilities and said he had telegraphed members of his outlawed People's Party in Albania to place themselves at the government's orders.

HUNGARIANS OCCUPY SLOVAK AREA YIELDED AFTER FIGHTING

Troops and Administrative Employes Take Over 386 Square Miles Acquired in Agreement April 4.

BUDAPEST, April 8 (AP).—Hungarian troops occupied today newly acquired former Czecho-Slovak territory up to the border fixed by agreement with Slovakia April 4.

The troops were followed by police and government employes to take over administration of the 386 square miles and the 45,000 new citizens.

The Hungarians annexed Carpatho-Ukraine after Munich last fall. With the German break-up of the rest of Czecho-Slovakia last month, Hungarian troops advanced into Slovak border areas. Slovakia, now a German protectorate, agreed to yield the disputed area to end border warfare.

WIFE OF OUTLAW, KILLED BY AGENTS HERE, CAPTURED

Estelle Dickson, Who Fled When Husband Was Trapped Thursday, Seized in Kansas City.

WANTED AS HIS AID IN BANK ROBBERIES

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict of Justifiable Homicide in Shooting of Desperado.

Estelle Dickson, young wife of Jenny Dickson, bank robber, who died after her husband was shot to death here by FBI agents Thursday night, was captured today in Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. Dickson, wanted for aiding her husband in two bank robberies and a kidnaping, will be arraigned at Kansas City. Before leaving St. Louis she rented a garage at 5616 Cates avenue and parked a Ford car containing firearms, ammunition and dynamite, which was found last night by police. Mrs. Dickson, a blonde, is about 18 years old.

Dickson, 27, and a former convict, was shot to death outside a hamburger shop at 16 South Euclid avenue when, the Federal agents said, he tried to reach two revolvers he carried. A Coroner's jury today decided the officers killed the wanted man in performance of their duty.

Testimony at Inquest.

Miss Gloria Cambron, waitress, repeated the account of events before and after the shooting, given previously to reporters, that Dickson met a dark-haired woman, who apparently pointed him out to the agents. She said the woman arrived before Dickson, that he sat with her and paid her check. They left together, but the woman returned and after Dickson was shot a man entered, and asked her "Is that the right man." The woman nodded affirmatively, Miss Cambron said.

The witness was unable to identify any of the four Federal agents in the courtroom as the one she said spoke to the woman. In her account of the shooting she said Dickson started to run when confronted by two of the agents.

Federal Agent's Account.

Gerald B. Norris, in charge of the local FBI office, testified that he received an anonymous telephone call at his home, 4907 West Pine boulevard, at 6:45 p. m., Thursday from a man, who told him that "a man wanted by the FBI can be found in a hamburger stand opposite No. 7 South Euclid avenue." Norris said he called Agents John Bush, Pierce Pratt and Louis Cochran to his apartment and they went to the hamburger shop, a block and one-half distant.

"We were stationed around the shop when Dickson went in," Norris related. Norris said he then walked past the window and obtained a "full view" of the fugitive. "There was no doubt as far as visual identification was concerned," the agent said.

When Dickson came out the agents were waiting beside the door and identified themselves, the witness said. "He went like this," Norris testified, indicating that Dickson had reached toward his belt and a pocket, where he carried revolvers. "We fired, and he fell," he added.

Woman in Auto Sped Away.

Asked by Herman Olian, Assistant Circuit Attorney, to name the agent who later talked with the woman, Norris replied, "I honestly do not believe that occurred." The other agents, called to the witness stand, said they saw no woman with Dickson. Following the shooting an automobile with a woman at the wheel sped north in Euclid avenue.

Detective Lieutenant Martin Flanagan received a telephone message last night informing him that the automobile was in the Cates avenue garage. Under the back seat were a .33-caliber rifle, a 30-30 rifle and a 12-gauge shotgun, all loaded.

Licence Plates of Four States.

Also in the machine were 10 sticks of dynamite, with caps and fuses attached, two army cartridge belts containing 324 rounds of rifle and pistol ammunition, 18 shotgun shells, 11 State automobile license plates of Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana, a suitcase of clothing, a new spade, two tennis rackets, two pairs of roller skates, a blanket, a dictionary, a notebook of late songs and a small bottle of liquid, believed to be an expdosive. A note, ordering a telescope, was signed "Robert Kane," an alias used by Dickson. The machine, which had Louisiana license plates, is at police headquarters.

After viewing the body of Dickson, David Seidel, East St. Louis clothing merchant, said he believed Dickson was the armed robber who held up 30 customers and employes in Seidel's Apparel Co., at 300 Collinsville avenue, at 5 p. m. Thursday. The general appearance was the same, but the clothing Dickson wore when killed was not the clothing worn by the East Side robber, and Seidel said today his identification was not positive.

Asked by Herman Olian, Assistant Circuit Attorney, to name the agent who later talked with the woman, Norris replied, "I honestly do not believe that occurred." The other agents, called to the witness stand, said they saw no woman with Dickson. Following the shooting an automobile with a woman at the wheel sped north in Euclid avenue.

Detective Lieutenant Martin Finnegan received a telephone message last night informing him that the automobile was in the Cates avenue garage. Under the back seat were a .33-caliber rifle, a 30-30 rifle and a 12-gauge shotgun, all loaded.

Licence Plates of Four States.

Also in the machine were 10 sticks of dynamite, with caps and fuses attached, two army cartridge belts containing 324 rounds of rifle and pistol ammunition, 18 shotgun shells, 11 State automobile licenses plates of Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana, a suitcase of clothing, a new spade, two tennis rackets, two pairs of roller skates, a blanket, a dictionary, a notebook of late songs and a small bottle of liquid, believed to be an expdosive. A note, ordering a telescope, was signed "Robert Kane," an alias used by Dickson. The machine, which had Louisiana license plates, is at police headquarters.

After viewing the body of Dickson, David Seidel, East St. Louis clothing merchant, said he believed Dickson was the armed robber who held up 30 customers and employes in Seidel's Apparel Co., at 300 Collinsville avenue, at 5 p. m. Thursday. The general appearance was the same, but the clothing Dickson wore when killed was not the clothing worn by the East Side robber. Seidel said today his identification was not positive.

CLARK HAS NOTHING TO SAY ON INDICTMENT

Truman Calls Pendergast 'Friend in Need'—Won't 'Desert Sinking Ship.'

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri said today he had no comment on the indictment of Thomas J. Pendergast by the Federal grand jury in Kansas City.

"Processes of the Department of Justice are something I have nothing to do with," he said. "They are not a part of my functions. I have no comment whatever."

Senator Harry S. Truman, who was nominated in 1934 almost solely through Boss Pendergast's backing, said yesterday he believed the indictment was caused by United States District Attorney Maurice M. Milligan for political reasons.

"My opinion is that the District Attorney at Kansas City is behind this, because of political animus," Truman said.

"I am sorry it happened. My connection with Pendergast was, of course, purely political. He has been a friend to me when I needed it. I am not one to desert a ship when it starts to go down. I know nothing about the details of this case."

Representative Clarence Cannon of Elsberry, Mo., declined comment yesterday. "It's news to me," he said. "I'll have to read the papers to find out what it's about."

Representative C. J. Bell of Kansas City also said he "didn't know a thing about it."

in demonstrating that the inquiry was going ahead. Within a few minutes after the indictments were returned the grand jury was back in its room taking the testimony of a Kansas City business man who, presumably, has had dealings with Pendergast. This man, Lester Jordan, head of a firm holding the city garbage disposal contract, was in the jury room most of the day with voluminous books and records.

Another business man, Gus Main, head of a concrete pipe company, was a witness later in the day. He told a Post-Dispatch reporter he had had some business dealing with Pendergast and was slightly acquainted with the Boss. Under subpena to testify today were several other business men.

The grand jury recessed today until Monday, April 17, to give members time to attend to personal affairs. Although its term officially ends April 24, it is possible for the court to extend its life if it has unfinished business.

St. Louis Stations to Cary Pius' First Easter Benediction.

The latter two stations will broadcast the program from Vatican City from 5 to 6 a. m., and KSD will put a transcription of the benediction on the air from 7 to 8 a. m.

Man Admits Jewelry Thefts.

Several pieces of jewelry stolen in recent weeks from the homes of six Negro families were recovered by police yesterday in a search of a residence in the 3300 block of Delmar boulevard. Policemen said James Sherman, Negro, admitted stealing the jewelry, valued at about $300.

shals who inscribed his biographical record on his card. Asked whether he was 5 feet 9 inches tall, he chuckled and replied: "I was. I've grown shorter. They say, you know, age shortens a man." He gave his weight as 220 pounds, turned his blue eyes toward his inquisitor in reply to a question as to their color, observed that whatever was left "of my hair is certainly gray." He appeared more at ease than the deputies, plainly aware of the unusual character of their subject.

He laid his gray hat on a table, faced his recorders in a blue serge suit. As always in his career, he appeared to be master of his entourage. But when he was directed from room to room, from the recording office to the commissioner's court, he moved with uncertain steps, obviously unfamiliar with surroundings and a procedure which he had never envisioned as falling to his lot. As he stood in the Marshal's office he seemed a lone figure despite his attendants. Newsboys were crying "extra" on the streets outside. His indictment was on every tongue.

Action a Bombshell to City.

The indictment hit this city like a bombshell. Rumor, common to a politically-minded community, had been translated into the cold citations of the indictments. And the grand jury was still in session.

The public reaction was terrific. Elderly jobholders in the Courthouse, some of them who knew Pendergast down in the old First Ward, where he got his start, didn't try to hide their fears. The cynical, some of them foes, said "I told you so." The indictment, regardless of the fact that its merits must be tested before an impartial jury, was the sole topic of conversation, on the street, in clubs, in homes, both high and low. No one, apparently, ever expected to see such an event come to pass. Common comment was:

"I never thought I'd live to see it happen."

Pendergast stood alone in the Marshal's office, despite his associates, as the storm of gossip broke without. Without a quaver, he signed his name to the bond, turned to his friends, who took him by the arm and escorted him to his car.

Then Pendergast went to his imposing home—which has always been to him a retreat far removed from the ruthlessness of the "business of politics" and the realistic demands of the political world.

SHERIFF FINED ON CONTEMPT CHARGE AT CHARLESTON, MO.

He and Four Others Cited in Connection With Alleged Jury Tampering in Civil Case.

CHARLESTON, Mo., April 8 (AP).—Circuit Judge Frank Kelly today found Sheriff Walter Beck of Mississippi County and four other men, three of them former WPA officials, guilty of contempt of court in connection with alleged jury tampering in a civil case tried March 7 last year.

Judge Kelly fined Beck $100 and fined the others as follows: Robert Burns, $50, and ordered his deputy sheriff's commission revoked; F. I. (Doc) Jones $35; James Brown $35, and P. D. Davis, $35.

Counsel for the defendants maintained Judge Kelly was unintentionally prejudiced. He denied he had any prejudicial sentiment, but insisted that the record showed "There was something behind" action of the Sheriff in selecting the jury for that particular case.

Burglar Steals Jewelry, Cash.

The theft of jewelry valued at $150 and $5 in cash was reported to police last night by Mrs. Viola Betz, 4405 Wallace avenue. Her home was entered through a rear window.

M'CORMACK RESIGNS CENTRAL STATES POST

Leaves Board of Life Insurance Company — Previously Quit as President.

Alphonsus L. McCormack, confessed go-between in the $460,000 "mystery fund" pay-off by which the insurance rate compromise was effected, has resigned as a director of Central States Life Insurance Co.

He was made president of this concern at the demand of R. Emmet O'Malley, then State Superintendent of Insurance, following the rate compromise, which was made in 1935. Previously he had been vice-president and a director, with O'Malley's backing. In March, 1938, a few months after O'Malley was ousted from office, McCormack resigned from the presidency but retained his place on the directorate.

Alfred Fairbank, former banker, who succeeded McCormack as president, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that a friend of McCormack, whom he declined to name, had notified him by telephone that McCormack was resigning.

"Pretty Decent of Al."

"I expect to get Al's letter of resignation today," Fairbank said. "I think it's pretty decent of him. After all, we would have had to ask him to resign later and I am anxious not to hurt his feelings. Al has been one of the most co-operative members of the board since I have been president."

Fairbank has not been informed whether McCormack planned to sell his 1000 shares of common stock in the company, worth $3 a share at the current market or $5 par.

McCormack is president of the Charles L. Crane Agency Co., Pierce Building, insurance agents. Directors of this concern held a long meeting yesterday but refused to say whether McCormack's position was discussed or whether his resignation was tendered or requested. McCormack was not present. One of his associates in the agency expressed surprise today that he had quit the Central States board.

McCormack House for Sale.

A maid at McCormack's large residence, 8001 Park drive, Hampton Park, Richmond Heights, said today he had gone away for the weekend.

The house was offered for sale in newspaper advertisements last Sunday. There was a "for sale" sign in the yard for a day, about a week ago, but it was removed at the advice of McCormack's counsel and friends. The property, assessed at $15,240, is carried on the public records in the name of Sadie J. Meyers. At the Crane Agency it was said she was an insurance broker, who came there from time to time. The lot was purchased from Mary and Daniel Louree in June, 1936. The following month a building permit was issued, valuing the house at $10,000 and naming the owner as "Al McCormick," Pierce Building.

ment between the parties, but was a fraud perpetrated on the court, as well as on the people.

What Are Court's Powers?

The question arises, if the transaction was colored through and through with fraud and the court deceived, what are the court's powers to protect itself? None of the three Judges—Stone, Otis and Reeves—can be quoted on this point. The question is not now before them officially, but it is possible that it will be raised in one way or another.

Still another question that arises is whether the parties to the stipulation, if they perpetrated a fraud on the court, did not also commit grossest contempt of court, for which the court might have power summarily to punish them.

It is obvious also that if Superintendent O'Malley accepted a bribe it becomes important to know where the money was paid to him, to determine the jurisdiction in which a prosecution could be instituted in the State courts. It is not likely that the present Prosecuting Attorney of Jackson County, W. W. Graves, a Pendergast ally and himself under indictment by a Jackson County grand jury, would institute such prosecution.

The Post-Dispatch has been informed by an authoritative source that the jurisdiction for such a prosecution is St. Louis. Thus any action would be in the hands of Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller.

District Attorney Maurice M. Milligan and his first assistant, Sam C. Blair, are going to St. Louis next week to investigate the jurisdiction.

Circuit Attorney Miller Knows of No St. Louis Transaction.

Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he had received no information to indicate that any of the transactions in connection with the $460,000 insurance pay-off that led to yesterday's indictments at Kansas City had taken place in St. Louis, but would be "glad to look into" any information of this nature brought to his attention.

PHILLIPS HOSPITAL HEAD AIDS AMBULANCE CHASING INQUIRY

Dr. McClellan Promises His Assistance to Mound City Bar Association.

Dr. Oral S. McClellan, superintendent of Homer G. Phillips Hospital for Negroes, in a letter to the Mound City Bar Association, composed of Negro attorneys, yesterday promised assistance in their investigation of "ambulance chasing" at the hospital.

Affidavits that white damage suit lawyers were receiving tips from Negro employes at the hospital have been turned over to the State Bar Committee, it was said recently by Sidney R. Redmond, head of a committee of Negro lawyers.

Dr. McClellan said that ambulance chasers had caused great difficulty at the old City Hospital No. 2 for Negroes but that he thought they had been "practically wiped out." He said he would suspend any persons charged with violation of hospital rules until they had received a hearing and would dismiss any found guilty.

OIL STATION MEN BEATEN FOR REFUSAL TO JOIN UNION

One of Two Attackers in East St. Louis Said to Be Officer of Attendants' Local.

Attendants at two East St. Louis filling stations reported to police yesterday that they had been beaten by two men after their refusal to join an American Federation of Labor filling station attendants' union. One of the men was said to be an officer of the union.

Stanley Wojcik, attendant at 1323 North Ninth street, said the men struck him in the face and then kicked out a door glass and threw roofing nails on the driveway. The men later appeared at a station at Twenty-fifth street and St. Clair avenues, where they struck Elmer Haider, attendant, and his father, Frank Haider.

Police said a glass tank on a gasoline pump at the St. Clair avenue station was broken by stones last night.

Four Americans Tell of Climbing 20,000-Foot Peak in Colombia

Snow-Capped Mountain Scaled First Time by Mapping Party, Including Anderson Bakewell of St. Louis.

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP). — Four scientists, just returned from the first ascent of one of the highest peaks ever climbed by an American expedition, reported yesterday that their explorations in Colombia led through regions rich in potentialities for white colonization and for cattle-raising.

Walter A. Wood of the American Geographical Society of New York said huge herds of wild cattle and wild black horses were observed as the party made its way to the snow-covered summit of a nameless peak nearly 20,000 feet high in the Santa Marta mountains.

"The accessibility of the area, little more than 25 miles from the Caribbean coast and just inland from the Colombian seaport, Barranquilla," Wood said, "should invite development since there are tremendous possibilities."

St. Louisan in Party.

Besides Wood, members of the expedition were: Anderson Bakewell of St. Louis, Thomas D. Cabot and Henry S. Hall of Boston, and Frank B. Notestein and Henry Praolini of Cucuta, Colombia. Cabot and Hall returned by plane a few days ago, while Wood and Bakewell arrived by boat Thursday.

They were sent out by the Geographical Society and the Boston Museum of Natural History to map the higher regions of the area, called Sierra Cristobal Colon by the natives, and to bring back geological and biological specimens.

"Scientific expeditions," Wood said, "have visited the lower regions before, but none had climbed to the summit. There are two tall peaks there, close to 20,000 feet, and about the same time we scaled one a party of Germans made their way up the other."

Woods said it was hoped to make further explorations to determine whether an oil field may lie about the base.

Potential Colony Areas.

"Lovely valleys," Wood said, "were found between the tree line at 7000 to 8000 feet and the grass line at about 14,000 feet. Here there are great potentialities for colonization. It is entirely possible that cattle-raising could be developed to a point rivalling some regions in Argentina."

The Indians, Wood said, had little contact with civilization, but those they saw were not warlike. They were keenly interested in tools and followed the party hoping to get empty tin cans to fashion into implements.

"We were amazed at their wanting tools, particularly when we had loaded up on beads and trinkets for them," Wood said. "Why, you almost had to tie your snow axes to you to keep them. There was one old Indian who when we told him we would have an empty five-gallon oil can at the camp, trudged eight miles over the range to get it."

The expedition, with permission from the Colombian government, obtained planes in Barranquilla and flew back at a level of about 21,000 feet to photograph the peaks.

Anderson Bakewell is the son of Edward L. Bakewell, real estate dealer, living in Huntleigh Village. He is 25 years old and a graduate of St. Louis University, where he specialized in geography and geology. He joined the staff of the American Geographic Society shortly before leaving on the expedition to Colombia.

3-YEAR-OLD BOY KILLED BY TRUCK IN ALLEY

Child Loses Life in Back of Home at 607 Westgate, University City.

Robert, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hieken, was killed at noon today when run over by a truck in an alley behind his home, 607 Westgate avenue, University City.

The driver, William Jackson, a Negro, 4349 Page boulevard, told police he saw the boy and other children playing in the alley as he prepared to back into it to clean out an ashpit, stopped and asked the children to stand aside until he had entered.

He then returned to his truck and started into the alley, he said; but one of the children cried, "Stop! You're running over a little boy!"

A front wheel of the truck passed over the boy's head, and he was dead on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital. His father is a salesman.

DISBARMENT SUIT FILED AGAINST FRANCIS A. FOSTER

Alleged to Have Taken $704 From Client on Promise of Recovering Kattelman Loss.

Suit to disbar Francis A. Foster for alleged professional misconduct as a lawyer was filed in Circuit Court today by the Bar Committee for the Eighth Judicial Circuit.

The committee alleges that Foster took $704.60 from Elizabeth Mulitzer on the assertion that he could, by depositing this sum with a certain person at Jefferson City, get back for her $14,090 she had paid Harold J. Kattelman for worthless mining stock, but kept the deposit for himself. Kattelman, bankrupt broker, is serving a Federal prison term for mail fraud and violation of the Security and Exchange Act.

The committee also alleges that Foster took $85 from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldstein on the fraudulent representation that he would have a mortgage renewed or refinanced for them and that he appropriated $27 given him for court costs for a personal injury suit in behalf of their son, Morris, a minor, which he failed to file. Clifford Greve, attorney for the committee, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the committee had been unable to find Foster following a hearing at which Foster presented evidence several months ago. He said Foster resided in Maplewood.

PILOT MISSING ON FLIGHT HERE

Took Off for St. Louis From Poplar Bluff; Plane Damaged.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., April 8 (AP).—The State Highway Patrol today was asked to help search for J. K. Stepp, pilot for an oil company, missing after taking off from Poplar Bluff yesterday in a damaged plane. He was flying from Houston, Tex., to St. Louis.

The aviator made a forced landing on a country road south of Poplar Bluff when engine trouble developed. He and farmers pushed his plane to a paved road where the ship was examined. Stepp said the propeller was cracked but he believed he could make it to St. Louis. He took off on the highway.

INCOME TAXABLE BY STATE SHOWS 8 1-2 PCT. DROP HERE

5 Pct. Decrease in Number of Returns and 2 Pct. in Amount of Money Owed.

Compilation of individual State income tax returns for 1938 income, completed today by Assessor Ralph W. Coale, shows a decrease of $7,719,693 or 8½ per cent in taxable income of St. Louis residents. There was a decrease of 5 per cent in the number of returns and 2 per cent in the amount of tax payable.

For 1938, there were 45,851 returns with taxable income of $82,389,252 on which taxes of $1,836,918 are payable. For 1937, there were 48,433 returns with taxable income of $90,108,945 subject to taxes of $1,873,853. Rates range from 1 to 4 per cent.

Income tax bills will be sent to the office of Collector William F. Laumann, Room 110, City Hall, where they will be payable May 1. They will become delinquent June 1 and a penalty of 1 per cent a month will be added.

GLOBE-DEMOCRAT CITED IN CHARGES BY GUILD

Coercion, Discrimination and Refusal to Bargain Are Alleged.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat was accused of unfair labor practices in violation of the Wagner Act in charges filed with the regional office of the National Labor Relations Board today by the St. Louis Newspaper Guild.

Ellwood Douglass, president of the Guild, signed the charges. Miss Dorothea de Schweinitz, regional director of the NLRB, declined to discuss details of the charges but said an investigation would be made by the board.

Douglass said the Guild charged coercion, discrimination and refusal to bargain. He said the Guild had negotiated for two months for its 150 members in the Globe-Democrat editorial, business and circulation departments but had made no headway. He said the management of the newspaper disputed the Guild's claims to majorities in various departments.

He said the guild had submitted to the Labor Board a letter which was sent to Globe-Democrat editorial employes by the management about a week ago regarding "unfairness" of Guild demands.

Lansing Ray Jr., secretary of the Globe-Democrat Publishing Co., issued the following statement:

"The Globe-Democrat has not at any time refused to negotiate in good faith with any union, including the Guild, if assurance was given to the management's satisfaction that the union represented a majority of its employes in any appropriate bargaining unit.

"We have not had satisfactory assurance from the Guild in this regard and have repeatedly requested the Guild to refer the issue of representation to the National Labor Relations Board, the legally-constituted agency to determine such matters.

"In regard to the charges of intimidation, coercion and discrimination, the Globe-Democrat can only say that they are unfounded and has repeatedly told the Guild that it would welcome adjudication of such by the Board.

"Friendly dealings for over 50 years with organized labor indicates the Globe-Democrat's attitude on this subject."

TOO MUCH CHLORINE IN WATER

County Water Supply Official Says Machine Got Out of Order.

When a machine at the waterworks of the St. Louis County Water Co. got out of adjustment Wednesday it began delivering a few drops of chlorine too many in each 1,000,000 gallons water. The result was a strong taste for suburban consumers.

A company official said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today the condition had been corrected and the taste should return to normal. Chlorine is used constantly in the county water supply, in small amounts altered daily to keep up with the changing conditions of the Missouri River.

Thinks St. Louis Is Asleep.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WOULD like to know what the matter is with St. Louisans. Why are they asleep, and how long are they going to keep turning a deaf ear to good propositions for St. Louis, and things that would help our great city?

Many years ago, they refused to help Henry Ford, later Burroughs Adding Machine, and numerous other firms that wanted to establish themselves here. St. Louis refused to help them in any way, shape or form. What is the matter with our Chamber of Commerce? What are they paid for up there by the public?

Last week I read an article where the Chamber of Commerce is trying to bring a big shoe manufacturer from Czecho-Slovakia to St. Louis because the Germans took his factory away from him. Why don't they take care of their own industries first?

I know a man who worked for 15 years to develop an invention which he now has put on the market in a small way. The item went over so big with buyers all over the country that he is flooded with business and cannot take care of it for the simple reason that he must equip himself with the proper machinery for this mass production. He has offers to move to New York and Chicago.

He also has an offer from a small town just out of St. Louis, offering to build him a factory and supply him with capital. But he is trying to wake up St. Louis, for he himself is a St. Louis booster, to bring in a large industry that would give a great deal of employment. I am afraid that he will have to move out of the city very soon. Wake up, St. Louis!

C. V. MOELLER.

Another Defeat for Old Mizzou.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I NOTE that the University of Wisconsin has withdrawn from the triangular track meet to be held at Columbia because of dear old Mizzou's unwillingness to compete against a Wisconsin Negro athlete. (I don't suppose Mizzou is afraid of him!) It just reminds me of the University's recent defeat at the hands of Lloyd Gaines, the Negro who won his case for admittance to the Law School.

WHITE MISSOURIAN.

Defends Our Stand on Home Picketing.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

H. V. ROMER criticises in this column your editorial, "Deport This Alien," which was based on sound Americanism, and complains further that industry uses gas, guns and grenades against labor on strike. Has industry ever gone out to seek this striking labor in order to use weapons on it, or does industry act only in defense of itself when attacked by mobs of striking labor and its criminal hangers-on?

If labor's intimidation of the individual wage earner by home picketing, which prompted your commendable editorial, is not alien to free America, I do not know what is.

LEON LA FONTE.

A Question for Kirkwood.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOU used two columns to tell how the City of Kirkwood made $37,000 a year on its light plant, but you didn't bother to explain what happened to that revenue. How does it happen that with this much more revenue than any other suburban community, taxes are highest of all in Kirkwood?

JUST WONDERING.

Wanted—A Good Example.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE world accepts a better mousetrap regardless of the race or nation that builds it. They all buy our improved machines and study our improved processes, to imitate them.

For a long time, following 1776, we were the hope of the world. Since the proof of the pudding is in the eating, however, the rest of the world, seeing our economic mess of poverty and worry, says, "that's not it," and embarks on experiments of their own, such as Socialism and Fascism.

We could best promote world justice by promoting a little at home. We need to finish the job of 1776, to free our democracy and our competitive principles of the monopolistic and special privileges that are grinding us down. All the world needs is just one good example.

The plight of the Razmirsky family, who were receiving only $10.85 a month relief to care for six persons, was described in the Post-Dispatch of March 31. Since that time, numerous readers have made gifts of food, clothing and cash to them.—Editor's Note.

A SOVEREIGN STATE AGAIN.

Missouri emerges from the baleful shadow of a powerful corrupt tyrrany.

Our dictatorship has been dethroned. Democracy has been restored. Missouri is again a sovereign State.

We have suffered a long, humiliating servitude.

Tom Pendergast's chambers in Kansas City have been in effect our seat of government. Tom Pendergast's nod has been the law.

For years our elections have been a farce. In the sacred exercise of his franchise, the citizen could go to the polls, either to approve the will of the Boss or vote a futile protest.

For years no man might hope for a public office of consequence except with the consent of Boss Pendergast. He named Governors, United States Senators, State Supreme Court Judges. Elective officers, like our Attorney-General or Secretary of State or Auditors or Treasurers, might aspire to promotion, or to succeed themselves, only by permission of Boss Pendergast. The man was a State above the State.

Political machines exist by and for spoils. What tribute the Kansas City machine has collected in its greater-than-the-law reign will never be known. What everybody does know is that the unspeakable rackets of vice and gambling and lawless saloons survive only by the protection they buy and pay for. Nor is it only in the furtive areas of the underworld that machine domination demands and gets its tolls. By intimidation, by persecution, by the examples of what has happened to rebellious subjects who refused to be victimized, by the dreadful evidence of the immunity from the law which privileged criminals enjoy—overwhelmed by the whole mass and momentum of terrorism, respectable enterprise surrenders in the name of self-preservation.

That chapter of sinister history has ended in Missouri.

Thomas J. Pendergast, indicted, is not convicted of any crime. But that indictment has shattered the legend of invincibility which has been the Kansas City machine's breath of life.

There will be no more journeyings to Kansas City, no more cooling of heels in the ante-room until the door man gives the sign. The pilgrimages of aspiring candidates to the gruff shrine are finished. The road to Mecca disappears from Missouri's map.

It is a cleaner, brighter day in Missouri—or it may be if as citizens we live up to the letter and spirit of citizenship. What we needed in Missouri was the official character and courage and capacity to challenge the gods of misrule. We found those essential qualities in Gov. Stark, in United States District Attorney Milligan, in Judge Allen Southern, in Federal District Judges Otis and Reeves, all of whom have contributed to the machine's collapse. Yet today the price of liberty, of democracy, is eternal vigilance, just as it always has been and must always be.

The fight is now on to release the Kansas City police force from the coils of the monstrous machine and place it under the direction of the State through a Board of Commissioners appointed by and responsible to the Governor. It is thus the police departments of St. Louis and St. Joseph are directed, with results that have convincingly justified the system.

The issue is now before the Legislature, in the form of an administration measure. Here again the Governor has come to grips with the Boss. And here is where the citizens of Missouri may individually rally to the Governor's aid by demanding of their Representatives and Senators that they support and pass the Kansas City police bill.

It is by such action we measure up to the letter and spirit of citizenship—that we exemplify the "eternal vigilance" which is liberty's price and democracy's shield and buckler.

As Shakespeare said, "Poor Tom's a-cold,"
And now the story can be told.

SAFETY AT THE BUSIEST CORNER.

The intersection of Big Bend and Clayton roads is the busiest corner in St. Louis County, a traffic survey showed more than a year ago. However, the rush of vehicles has usually been left to make its way through the intersection without any attempt at traffic control. For a time, after the Post-Dispatch had called attention to the delay and danger at this corner, police officers were on duty there, but only at intervals.

It is good news therefore that Clayton and Richmond Heights, the cities in which this dangerous corner lies, have at last decided to install electric signals. The installation will be financed by their gasoline taxes, and no better use for this money could be found. Drivers who have been harassed for years by the unguarded corner will pay the extra pennies cheerfully to end this major traffic nuisance.

A survey of corporation salaries reports that "Big bosses are few and far between." And that was before the famous Missouri putout.

HAIR-RAISING DRAMA FROM CHICAGO.

The "Graphic Section" of the Chicago Tribune last Sunday contained a page concerning "The Return of Peter Quill," invincible nemesis of Communists. The time of the episode is the present, but first glance indicates the pictorial adventure page is steeped in the brew of hairbreadth escape entertainment from the days of the silent two-reel thrillers. Quite in keeping is the anachronistic picture of an officer of the United States Navy in the high-collared uniform that went out of style at the end of the World War. The officer is dubbed "Ensign" Porter, but a Junior Lieutenant's stripe is on his sleeve and a Senior Lieutenant's bars are on his shoulder. He sits beside a "detector" with a stupefied look as he hears the drone of robot bombers heading for an attack on the Panama Canal.

Peter Quill, however, is a man of action. He puts his "powerful electronic transmitter" in operation. A "radio ceiling" is created. Falling bombs "explode harmlessly." The villain, a beefy individual named Petrovich, hops ashore from the fishing boat on which he has been guiding the robot planes by remote control. He is "enraged." He hurls a hand grenade with a baseball pitcher's motion, instead of as it should be tossed, but Quill's girl friend grabs it and throws it into the canal. Then a Federal agent lands a roundhouse blow to snarling Petrovich's chin and tumbles him into the canal.

But wait! Sonya, Petrovich's accomplice, rushes to the United States Army air field, climbs into a bomber and heads for Gatun locks to blow them up. There is no picture showing what the troops are doing as Sonya "eludes guards" and confiscates the bomber. But she is shot down just before she bombs the locks. Apparently Mr. Quill forgot to step over to his "powerful electric transmitter" and set up a "radio ceiling." Had that wonderful device been used again, it would not have been necessary to be so unchivalrous as to shoot Sonya down.

The pictures in this overwhelming drama were, according to an underline, posed by the WGN radio station cast of "Peter Quill" in the studios of the "World's Greatest Newspaper." Gee whiz!

NO GROUNDS FOR DRUG LAW DELAY.

The antiquated Pure Food and Drug Act of 1906, whose numerous loopholes had long caused the public to suffer fraud and injury from an unscrupulous minority of firms, was modernized by the Federal measure enacted last June 25. Only a few of its provisions became effective at once; it was provided that most of them should not become law until June 25, 1939. Despite this liberal allowance of time, a number of food, drug and cosmetic firms now are applying pressure for further delay, with a plea that Congress extend the date to Jan. 1, 1940.

A few of these concerns have valid reasons for such a request, since some of the regulations were not issued until a few months ago, and a number are still in their formative stages. However, the great majority of firms have had ample time to make the required changes in labels and in ingredients of their products. Secretary Wallace points out that in some instances the plea for postponement comes from "those who opposed enactment of the law and who appear to be unreconciled to compliance." The Secretary expresses gratification over the promptness with which most manufacturers have complied with the requirements.

It would be a mistake, in our opinion, for Congress to heed the lobby's plea and postpone the effective date of this move to safeguard the consumer. Mr. Wallace has announced that his department does not expect the impossible, that it will give sympathetic consideration to firms that encounter actual difficulties in meeting the regulations. Such an understanding should be sufficient protection for these firms. Certainly there should be no delay in making effective those measures that are necessary to protect the public health.

Gov. Stark sounds a warning against "Balkanization" in the United States, and after witnessing what has been going on in and around the Balkans, it's very plain the Governor is right again.

POLAND CHANGES FRONT.

Mr. Chamberlain's offer of military aid to defend Poland's independence, and that of any other country, marked a sweeping reversal in Britain's traditional policy. Its acceptance by Poland's Foreign Minister, Col. Joseph Beck, and its extension to a permanent reciprocal agreement, marks a no less sweeping reversal in Polish policy. For Poland, hemmed between two powerful neighbors, has played a cautious lone-wolf game, trying to preserve equable relations abroad but making no foreign commitments. Poland profited in territory by the Fuehrer's breaking up of Czecho-Slovakia, and now, having joined the anti-Hitler bloc, it is doubtless in line for a fat loan from Britain.

It would be fantastic to assume that the Poles, having distrusted the Western democracies for all these years, now are suddenly convinced of their dependability. Rather, it appears that they have chosen what seems the lesser of two evils. If Hitler does have designs on their country (and that is the justifiable fear of every European state today), then it is just as well for the Poles to have an understanding with the British. If British help comes when called for, they are ahead; if it fails, they are no worse off than today.

No matter how frail the mutual confidence with which the nations of the embryonic "stop Hitler" front regard each other, their exchange of pledges is nevertheless a challenge to the Fuehrer. The rudimentary coalition, for the moment at least, has given him cause for some furious thinking as he burrows into the solitude of his mountain retreat.

Form letter to your servant at Jefferson City: "Dear Representative: Vote for that Kansas City police bill. I'm not asking you. I'm telling you. Yours, with a bouquet—or bludgeon."

THE STORY OF 1940.

The Washington correspondents, 50 strong, rather surpassed themselves the other day. First, they removed the 1940 political enigma that has been astride the none too sturdy shoulders of 1939. They eliminated Mr. Roosevelt and his inscrutable designs from the picture. Then they nominated Dewey and Taft for the Republicans, and elected them. Wearying not of well-doing from their point of view, they wrote the Democratic ticket, Garner and Farley, and dispatched Cactus Jack and the unresigning Jim to that bourne from which Mr. Hoover would fain return but which Mr. Landon appears to find quite comfortable.

Whether a five-hour day, or a 50-hour day, it was surely a big day's work. Offhand, we can recall no group performance that matches it. But who can forget the single-handed exhibition of that former Washington correspondent, still happily with us, who, still yielding to the urge of print, occasionally comes out of his California silence to tell us what is going to be? We give you Samuel G. Blythe.

The place was Cleveland, the year '36. John Hamilton had made two speeches in one standing; "Oh, Susanna" had for a gala interval been the national anthem. Sam Blythe had rapturously reported the proceedings, and, before taking off for Philadelphia, confidently announced "Alfred M. Landon will be the next President."

It wasn't much of a show at Philadelphia. The bands played, and speeches of course tumbled out into the void, and Mr. Roosevelt, under the stars, arranged that "rendezvous with destiny," but the zest of uncertainty just wasn't there. Sam Blythe was there. And, by way of final gesture, he again handed the key of the White House to Mr. Landon. True it is that Maine and Vermont heard him, but the others were not listening. Even so, we think the ex-correspondent's individual contribution to political prophecy tops the massed essay of the veil-lifting 50.

Mr. Hoover breaks silence regretfully to say the plan of his former Secretary of State, Henry L. Stimson, will lead us straight into war. As President, Herbert Hoover sent no American Expeditionary Force to Europe, but he drenched the home land with a wild and woolly peace.

Bicycles and Traffic Safety

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Providing for safety of cyclists is among most difficult of all traffic problems, police Lieutenant writes; urges permitting their use of sidewalks in designated areas; more hazard to young bicycle rider on the street than to pedestrian when wheels are allowed on walks.

By Lieut. L. O. Bennett of the Lincoln (Neb.) Police, Author of "The Bicycle and Traffic Safety."

THE governing bodies of municipalities today face no problem more perplexing or more controversial than the matter of street traffic control. Everyone has his own ideas and is seldom reluctant to express them.

It is the opinion of this writer that, of all the ramifications of traffic control generally, the one problem which comes nearest to defying solution is "What are we going to do about the bicycle?" And the most controversial angle of bicycle control is the matter of whether all bicyclists should be required to ride on the streets, whether they should be permitted to ride on sidewalks, or whether exceptions should be made.

A bicycle on the street is resented by motorists. A bicycle on the sidewalk is resented by pedestrians. The cyclist's plight is not unlike that of the man without a country. All this in spite of the fact that, as far as priority rights to the streets are concerned, the cyclist is second only to the old gray mare and the spring buggy.

The bicycle is the only mode of self-transportation provided boys and girls who have not yet reached driving age. For transportation, they have the options of walk, pay, hitch-hike or ride a bicycle.

A large majority of bicycle riders (in some cities it exceeds 80 per cent) are children under the age of 16. Most of these are carefree, irresponsible youngsters lacking in mature judgment.

Most city ordinances and state statutes do not provide law enforcement officers with enforcement weapons with which to require this majority of bicycle riders to conform to traffic laws. Police and municipal Judges hesitate to impose fines on youngsters. The Juvenile Court is not the answer. It is a branch of the Criminal Court and has neither the machinery nor the disposition to handle a large volume of traffic cases. There is nothing left but persuasive arguments and the parents. Sometimes the latter are none too co-operative.

A bicycle control ordinance, intended to protect bicycle riders from vehicular traffic and to protect pedestrian traffic from bicycle riders, seems to be the answer. In spite of the general fog of indecision which shrouds this problem, there are two items on which all members of the National Safety Council's committee on bicycle problems (of which the writer is chairman) are in general agreement, viz:

1. The hazard to the bicyclist is greater when he is required to ride in the street than is the hazard to the pedestrian when the bicyclist is permitted to ride on sidewalks.

2. There cannot be one ironclad rule, with reference to riding of bicycles on sidewalks, applicable to all cyclists in all localities.

A rule applicable to the 20-year-old commercial messenger would not be suitable for the 12-year-old junior high school student who rides a bicycle to and from school. A rule suitable for a busy downtown intersection, such as St. Louis' Twelfth street and Washington avenue, or Chicago's State and Madison, would not apply to an intersection in an exclusive residential district.

The matter should be left to one man. The best qualified to make such a decision is the Chief of Police.

It is not suggested that the map of the city be made to look like a patchwork quilt, with the riding of bicycles on sidewalks permitted in one block and not in another. There are localities where the bicyclist would be safer on the sidewalk than on the street, and there are localities where for all concerned it would be better to have him ride in the street. I have in mind, in the latter instance, a busy retail shopping district, where sidewalks are narrow and crowded and the traffic on the street is slow-moving. In Chicago, all Western Union messengers in the Loop district walk, rather than ride bicycles, because of the hazards present.

A child may be comparatively safe while riding his bicycle on the sidewalk, but to make progress he must leave the security the sidewalk provides and enter a hazardous street at the end of each block. If in expediting his trip, he swings down a driveway into the street, pedals for half a block in the street until he comes to another driveway on which he can return to the sidewalk, or if he jumps the curb and rides into the street from behind parked cars, he is actually in jeopardy more than if he had been riding in the streets the full distance.

The bicyclist, certainly if a child, should dismount before crossing a busy street and walk. He should dismount when meeting a group of pedestrians on a residential street. In overtaking pedestrians, he should exercise the utmost caution.

These are things he should do, but it is something else again to make him do them unless, of course, there is special legislation. This legislation might call for the registration and licensing of bicycles; and for a special bicycle court in which the penalties imposed might be in the form of license suspensions or impounded bicycles.

Every municipality is obligated to provide safe places for bicycles to be ridden. Bicycle paths in public parks, as in Central Park, New York City, are coming fast and provide an "out" for those who ride wheels for recreation. Marked bicycle paths on boulevards have been successfully tried, as have bicycle paths on the shoulders of rural highways. Some cities (for instance, Wilmette, Ill.) set aside part of the sidewalk for the exclusive use of bicycle riders.

Intelligent bicycle legislation of an enforceable nature must come, and come soon, if the bicyclist is to be removed from the precarious position he now occupies.

A SONG TO LINCOLN.

From the Des Moines Tribune.

OCCASIONALLY, in the rich metaphor of his speech, Abraham Lincoln turned to the terminology of music. In his first inaugural address he said:

"The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

It may be doubly appropriate that Marian Anderson, the Negro contralto who was not permitted to sing in Constitution Hall at the national capital, is to present her Easter concert on the grounds of the Lincoln Memorial, the nation's shrine to the Great Emancipator.

Our Dual Nature

WE all think and speak often of the U. S. A., but do we pause often enough to appreciate the fact that it means UNITED States of America? We are a group of 48 states, each with a strong state government of its own, but united under a common central Government. This makes us different from some of the other democracies.

Our democracy may be said to have a dual nature because each of our citizens has two governments—the state and the national. In order to win support for the Constitution, this arrangement—called the federal system—was agreed upon as a compromise between those who wanted a strong central Government and those who did not want to take away any powers of the states. However, the compromise possesses virtues of its own.

A democracy must be run by consent of the people. But how difficult it is for 130,000,000 people to know just what the Government is doing and why, when the Government is hundreds or thousands of miles away! Yet, if the people do not understand their Government and if they are not interested in it, a democracy cannot expect to prosper. Since we have state and local governments, it is possible to keep many Government activities close to the people. This makes it easy for them to watch their Government and learn about it.

Also, in a country as large as ours, management of the Government's business—that is, administration—is necessarily such a big and complicated affair that it is hard to do a good job when too much responsibility is centered in one place. Our state and local governments make it possible to avoid too much centralization of this kind.

Another advantage of the federal system is that experiments may be made more easily in the states than on a nation-wide scale. When changes in the national Government are considered, we can often benefit by experiences in the states, successful or unsuccessful. The boundary line between state and national government has never been fixed. We are fortunate that it has been possible to shift this boundary line from time to time as conditions have changed.

A GOVERNMENT SMILES ON LOVE.

From the New York Post.

IT is pleasant to read that Venezuela, in this serious age, takes time out to encourage love.

Whether the current Venezuelan dictum has been influenced by Hollywood scenario writers we can't say, but the Venezuelan postal service has announced that love letters henceforth may be sent half rate.

This is so charming an idea that we have to mention that there are two catches in it. One, that the letters must be in pink envelopes for ready identification; second, that the Government reserves the right to open these letters and read them.

Bureaucracy, however, is bureaucracy whether in Venezuela or the United States. To a bureaucrat the difference between a love letter and an income tax report is the difference between Form 24X4 and Form 376Z1. Venezuelan swains are really lucky they haven't been ordered to submit triplicate bons for filing.

Freedom of

THIS country wants peace, security and freedom to live its own life the way it wishes to live it. These three things may be compatible, but there are times in history when they are not. The second two are a definition of the first. The absence of war, accompanied by a condition of extreme insecurity and with the conditions of life dictated by somebody else or some other nation or some combination of nations, is not peace. It is either an armistice between wars or permanent slavery.

This country has a very good chance of maintaining peace, security and freedom to live in the kind of society we, ourselves, wish to make. The condition of our maintaining these three, which together mean real peace, is freedom of action.

Therefore, we ought to repeal the neutrality bill. We ought not to repeal it because we want to make the world safe for democracy. We ought not to repeal it because we want to stand behind the British and French. We ought not to repeal it because we want to be the Galahad of the world.

We ought to repeal it because through it, we restrict our own actions, in a world where we cannot possibly know what is going to happen from one day to the next.

We ought, in the second place, to maintain our freedom of action by making no definite commitments at this time. I think it would greatly help our freedom of action if the President would remove Mr. Kennedy from his post in Britain.

We need an American Ambassador in Great Britain and not a British Ambassador. We had Walter Hines Page there before the last war. What we need there at present is another Charles Francis Adams.

The present British policy is still not at all clear. Both the British and the French are still being run by exactly the same people and exactly the same Cabinets, who are responsible for the present state of affairs that their countries are in. It is very difficult to have faith that France will pursue a straightforward policy as long as M. Bonnet is Foreign Minister, or that Britain may not in some fashion repeat the procedure of September, as long as Mr. Chamberlain is Prime Minister and Sir John Simon and Sir Samuel Hoare are in the Cabinet and Eden is not.

Chamberlain's attempt at this time to unite all the small countries and Russia in an anti-aggression front—that is to say, to restore the system of collective security which he, Sir John Simon and Sir Samuel Hoare did so much to destroy—may succeed. But Mr. Chamberlain's changing his mind does not automatically create a new situation. It puts the Poles in a very strong bargaining position, and exactly what the Polish policy is, is not at all clear from reading the Polish press.

Officially, judging from the press, Poland is still playing both ends against the middle. We still do not know whether Chamberlain has purchased a few days or months of armistice or laid the foundations of a new system strong enough to maintain peace.

The editorial of the London Times which hints that some concessions might be made has been officially repudiated, but so was that other Times editorial suggesting that it might be a good thing to detach the Sudetenland — at the same time that Mr. Chamberlain was repeating his pledges to France and the French Government as insisting on its intention of standing by Czecho-Slovakia.

There are two bills sponsored by Senator Pittman, and neither of them is wise. The provision that we should sell arms in time of war only to those nations that can pay cash and carry off the goods relegates the foreign policy of this country to a very low point of the grossest materialism. As a piece of legislation representing any permanent policy it is a fake.

His other bill, proposing that our Government undertake in Government plants to manufacture munitions for South America, tends, in the opinion of this column, to get us into a most terrible jam, for it puts our Government itself into the business of supplying arms to South American countries who may possibly become embroiled with each other. And it may at some future date be the cause of subjecting our Government to enormous pressures from outside.

Nor can this column wholeheartedly concur with the proposal that the President of the United States shall be given the power to decide who is and who is not an aggressor and on that basis control the supply of arms.

In the world at present there is no longer any criterion as to what is and what is not aggression, because there is nothing remotely approaching international law.

And, again, our policy will be determined by our vital interests. If, for instance, we had unquestionable information that Germany intended to seize the Azores, I think our navy would believe it to be in our vital interests to get there first. But the German Government would certainly regard this as an act of wanton, aggressive imperialism.

This column agrees with Mr. Stimson that the world is in the most serious crisis in at least 400 years. It is not at all certain that it is not the most serious crisis since the collapse of the Roman Empire. For we are dealing with a combination of military aggression plus revolution. And the revolution is one that cuts itself off from the totality of Western thought, from the law, from the ethical beliefs and even from such conceptions of the state as have not been challenged since the fourth century—not even by Napoleon—and which works with political and propaganda methods which are unique to the modern world.

In a time like this, one is forced to live from day to day. Therefore, it is suicidal to tie one's hands by legislation designed to deal with situations which cannot be foreseen. The Neutrality Act has already in its short existence been amended three times. It is safe to predict that if it is again amended it will be amended yet again and again—whenever some new situation arises.

Meanwhile, by the very nature of things, leadership in foreign affairs is, actually, in the hands of the President and the Secretary of State. Day by day we take diplomatic action, Neutrality Act or no Neutrality Act, which leads us in a certain direction and which will in the end be determining.

But while we live from day to day, the one rock on which our security stands is the maintenance of freedom of action. We ought to maintain that freedom on all three fronts: legislative, diplomatic and military. Maintaining it on the legislative front means that we do not weaken our bargaining power or our competence to act quickly by tying our own hands by laws.

Maintaining it on the diplomatic front means that we do not make commitments in advance of a very exact knowledge of what we are committing ourselves to.

Maintaining it on the military front means that we adopt a policy and stick to it. That policy is determined, in the first place, by geography. Our immense advantage is to be a continental power on two oceans, with a northern neighbor with whom we have had no quarrel for more than a 100 years, and with such resources that we can certainly defend this continent and even this hemisphere.

We ought never to allow air bases to be established by any potentially hostile government within bombing distance from our shores, and if it is perfectly clear that any attempt to do so will most certainly evoke immediate action, it is extremely unlikely that the attempt will ever be made.

But we are bound, again, in the nature of things, to intrust our safety to our State Department and to our armed forces, always with the restraining influence of a public opinion that is hostile to sentimental adventures and inexorably opposed to permanent alliances as between states.

This does not mean that we will not or should not collaborate on occasion and in crises with those whose interests are synonymous at the moment with ours. It is too bad that so few people have ever read Washington's Farewell Address.

He never recommended that we should always and on all occasions avoid temporary alliances. He recommended that we should make no alliances that we cannot change at our own will, and in accordance with our own interests. In other words, he recommended freedom of action.

EAST SIDE OF HEAVEN—Bing Crosby cashes in on his reputation as a papa, he and Mischa Auer playing nursemaid and second fiddle, as well, to a delightful infant. A very light-hearted and musical entertainment. "Spirit of Culver" may be described as a pint-size "Duke of West Point" or simply "Brother Mouse." At the AMBASSADOR.

BROADWAY SERENADE—Jeanette MacDonald going it alone in the musical world, with so many gorgeous production numbers and so much singing that the absence of one Nelson Eddy is fully compensated for. "Whispering Enemies" is just a rumor which I wouldn't deny or affirm. At LOEW'S.

DODGE CITY—Errol Flynn closes a wide-open town in Western Kansas. All in color, it's worth the time spent. "Women In the Wind" has Kay Francis right in there fighting 'em, in the cross-country air derby. At the FOX.

KING OF CHINATOWN—Dr. Anna May Wong operates on Akim Tamiroff and finds he has a heart of gold. In "Newsboys' Home," Jackie Cooper and his pals save the city from dishonest journalism. Also a set of old Disney cartoons is thrown in. At the ST. LOUIS.

THREE SMART GIRLS GROW UP—Second week for a bountifully enjoyable Deanna Durbin musical, on the program with a sour note called "The Family Next Door." At the MISSOURI.

PROGRAM AGAINST INTERSTATE TRADE BARRIERS ADOPTED

Representatives of 44 Commonwealths, in Conference, Urge Repeal of Retaliatory Laws.

CHICAGO, April 8 (AP).—Representatives of 44 states and four territories approved yesterday a broad program for the restoration of free trade among the states.

They requested the Council of State Governments, sponsor of the three-day conference on the removal of state trade barriers, to take these steps:

1. Discourage the adoption of any retaliatory legislation by states "which feel themselves aggrieved by the legislation of their neighbors."

2. Encourage the repeal of trade barrier legislation already adopted.

3. Foster the enactment of uniform laws and the adoption of reciprocal agreements designed to reduce trade barriers between the states.

4. Co-operate with various commissions on interstate co-operation in calling regional hearings to carry out the recommendations of the conference.

Mediation Conferences.

Any state which regarded itself as adversely affected by legislation of another state was invited to arrange a conference on the dispute through the council.

The conferees advocated a return to the "traditional policy of free trade among the states in order that the producers and consumers of the nation may buy or sell without legal discrimination either as to the place of origin of goods, the method of transportation or the efficiency of the producer."

They also urged Congress to continue an effort to reach an "equitable freight rate basis for the entire United States." Gov. Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas had suggested that they approve equalization of Northern and Southern freight rates. Nine Southeastern states have joined in a move to remove differentials which, they contend favor Northern shippers.

Gov. Robert L. Cochran, of Nebraska, president of the council, said, "this conference has definitely broken the steady upward curve of trade barrier legislation. The publicity given our meeting has created wide discussion and for the first time made the American people conscious of the threat to their general economy."

Report of Tax Committee.

The conference adopted unanimously the report of a special committee on taxation which declared "the taxing power of states should not be utilized to effect discriminations or to erect barriers against interstate commerce."

Presented by Simeon E. Leland, chairman of the Illinois Tax Commission, the report recommended that if states decided to handicap the trade of their neighbors that it be done "directly and not masquerading under the taxation power." Such forthrightness, the conference agreed, would bring the problem out into the open.

Regarding the taxing of interstate motor carriers, the committee recommended a parity should be establish between domestic and non-resident users of highways no matter whether gasoline tax, license, ton-mile or combination of such taxes is utilized.

A report of the Liquor Control Committee, which contained an appeal for removal of interstate trade barriers, did not come before the conference. Declaring that liquor never had been controlled and never would be, State Senator Miles M. Callaghan of Michigan, suggested the report be considered read and filed. His suggestion was approved.

GOV. HORNER COMING HOME FROM FLORIDA

Executive, Convalescing Since Nov. 28, Says He Feels Fine.

MIAMI, Fla., April 8 (AP). — In a drizzle of rain, Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois boarded a train here today to return home after an absence since Nov. 28 because of illness. He was accompanied by a nurse and his secretary, John Casey.

Horner will arrive in Chicago tomorrow. He plans to entrain for Springfield Monday.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 7 (AP).—Gov. Horner of Illinois, said today he was "feeling fine except that I've got rubber legs."

The 60-year-old State executive received newspaper men yesterday for the first time, since he came here Nov. 28, and demonstrated that he had virtually recovered from the nervous disease and heart trouble which necessitated complete seclusion.

At Springfield Gov. Horner said he would resume his full duties but that his physician had ordered him to devote only an hour or two a day to his office until he completely recovers his strength.

To inquiries about legislative investigation, Horner said he was "perfectly delighted because I watch expenditures myself."

"I really court it," he continued, "because I am thoroughly satisfied with our financial conditions. We have kept salaries down and that's our biggest trouble because we want to raise them now."

On the presidential outlook, Horner said he would be "thoroughly for" United States Senator Scott Lucas as a favorite son choice "but I don't know whether he will be a candidate."

In the event Lucas doesn't want to run, Horner said his organization had not determined upon a candidate.

As for a third term for himself, Horner said "I don't know."

"If my health permits," he added, "I might consider it if the people want me. They seem to have gotten along well without me."

OREGON CALLS UNION DEMAND TOO BROAD IN LABOR ACT TEST

Attorney General Submits Written Argument for Demurrer.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 8 (AP). —Organized labor has tried to cover too much ground in asking a declaratory judgment invalidating Oregon's new union-control law, counsel for the State's Attorney General, a defendant, declared yesterday in written arguments supplementing demurrers.

The American Federation of Labor, Congress for Industrial Organization and Railroad Brotherhood asked for the judgment on the contention that the law jeopardized the proper functions and purposes of a union.

The law restricts picketing, labor boycotting, and opens union books to inspection. The defendants contend the test should have a specific controversy between employer and employes for a basis, and inasmuch as one is lacking the three-judge court has no jurisdiction. Demurrers, based essentially on this claim, were overruled by the court Wednesday but the Attorney General was given until yesterday to file supplementary arguments.

ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT AGAIN BOOSTS GARNER

President's Son Expects to See Government Swing Toward Center of Road.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 8 (AP).—Elliott Roosevelt said in a radio talk last night the Garner boom for President was on and Garner would be hard to remove from the driver's seat unless President Roosevelt chose to run for a third term.

The possibility of his father seeking another term is "a matter about which I neither know nor predict a thing," the President's son declared in his semiweekly broadcast.

He referred to "the remarkable ability and character" possessed by Garner, and declared, "there is something about the majority of men in public life who hail from Texas that inspires confidence in Texans."

"We may expect to see a new surge toward recovery within the next year with the swing of Government favoritism from the extreme labor side more nearly to the center in favor of capital."

"Signs of 1938 and 1939 indicate," he continued, "that next year we will encounter a forked road in our political future. It is up to the individual and the group of individuals to decide whether we take the left road towards a more radical liberalism, whether we swing down the right to conservatism, or if we continue down the middle of the road between the fence rows that likely will mark the Democratic party line."

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, criticised yesterday by Senator Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana, for "setting a bad precedent" in allowing Miss Anderson to use the Memorial, will introduce the singer. Her program will be broadcast by NBC at 4 p. m. (St. Louis time).

For children in the capital, the annual egg-rolling will be held on the White House lawn Monday.

ST. PETER'S FIRE RITES MARK RESURRECTION

Cardinal Tedeschini Sets Blaze in Holy Saturday Service.

ROME, April 8 (AP).—The 40 days of Lenten mourning ended today with the pealing of church bells and joyous church services commemorating Christ's resurrection.

In St. Peter's Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, archpriest of the Basilica, struck sparks from flint to light the new fire symbolizing the resurrection.

Then he blessed the Pope's Paschal candle, a huge one, eight feet tall and three inches in diameter. This ceremony was followed by the Holy Saturday mass during which the blessing was bestowed with relics said to have been connected with Christ's passion and death.

In all of Rome's 400 churches organs, silent since Holy Thursday, were played again. Altar candles were relighted and the mourning draperies of black and purple lifted from the images.

Priests wandered from one home to another to bestow the traditional Holy Saturday blessing. They visited each room, reciting a prayer and sprinkling the premises with holy water carried by an acolyte in a silver cannister.

Many Italian families already had prepared their evening meal and had it laid out on the table to enable the priest to bless the food.

Florence celebrated with the six-century-old ceremony of exploding the sacred cart. Thousands of Florentines and tourists crowded a square as the cart, loaded with fireworks and decorated with flags and flowers, was drawn into the square by four white oxen with gilded horns and hoofs.

A priest set off a rocket attached to an artificial dove. The dove slid down a wire into the cart igniting its cargo of rockets, Roman candles and colored fire.

MRS. ROOSEVELT AND QUEEN CHOOSE BLUE GOWNS FOR VISIT

Each Picked Color Not Knowing Other Had Selected It; Two Shades Harmonize.

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP). — Without knowing what the other would choose, Queen Elizabeth of England and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt decided on blue for the gowns they'll wear when they meet in Washington in June, and the two shades they chose harmonize.

Their attire will symbolize good will between their two countries. The soft summer wool that is to make their dresses is being presented to each by wool growers of the other's country.

A packet marked for delivery to the Queen at Buckingham Palace, containing the American-woven fabric, gift of wool growers of 34 states, was placed aboard the Queen Mary yesterday.

Mrs. Roosevelt said on seeing the samples, "we were wise without knowing it. The two shades go so well together."

CLOSED SHOP HELD TO BE CONTRARY TO PUBLIC POLICY

Three-Judge California Court Rules It Is Infringement on Individual Employe's Right.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8 (AP). —The closed shop, in effect, was ruled "contrary to public policy" in three opinions handed down by the State Appellate Court yesterday.

The American Federation of Labor unions involved said they would appeal to the State Supreme Court.

The court held indirectly that a closed shop contract infringed on the individual employe's right to have full freedom of self-organization and designation of his own bargaining representatives.

Justice John T. Nourse, who wrote the unanimous opinions for the three-judge court, based his decision largely on a section of the labor code which union attorneys contended was written solely to outlaw the "yellow dog" contract under which an employer forces an employe to remain a member of a company union.

"It is manifest," Judge Nourse wrote, "the statute went far beyond that when it denounced a contract requiring employes to join some specific labor organization. . .

"It may be doubted whether it would not have been subject to the constitutional objection of discrimination if it had been made to apply to one type of labor organization."

All three cases involved picketing to enforce closed shop demands. The court commented peaceful picketing for illegal purposes was not lawful.

The portion of the law involved was adopted by the State Legislature in 1933 and incorporated in the 1937 labor code. It says:

"Every promise made after August 21, 1933, between any employe or prospective employe and his employer, prospective employer or any other person is contrary to public policy if either party thereto promises . . . to join or to remain a member of a labor organization or to join or remain a member of an employer organization."

The alliance between Poland and His Majesty's Government, proclaiming the readiness of the British nation to make the utmost sacrifice in defending peace, adds to my admiration, profound reverence and gratitude. I am sure these sentiments are wholeheartedly shared by my entire nation. . . . The Poles will never give up their liberty without a bitter fight."

STOCK LIST LEADERS IN 1 TO 5 POINT PRICE BREAK

Traders Return From Recess of Yesterday Apparently More Concerned Than Ever Over European Situation — Offerings Heavy — Margin-Calling.

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP). — European worries combined with doubtful domestic business prospects to give the stock market another sharp break today and leading issues dropped to new lows since last June.

Declines ranged from 1 to 5 points generally. A few high-priced shares were off 7 or so. Most pivotals were at or near bottom marks of the day at the close.

Selling pressure was pronounced at the opening when the ticker tape ran behind for a while. Although there was a let-down later, the recording machinery again lagged at the finish. Transfers for the two hours approximated 1,500,000 shares, the largest turnover for any short session since March 6, 1937. Out of the total of 918 individual issues traded in, 785 declined and 25 advanced.

Offerings were principally from home sources, brokers said, with orders from abroad about even up.

With London, Paris and Amsterdam closed through Monday for the Easter holidays, New York was the only world market which could reflect the Italian invasion of Albania, latest move on the foreign checker board.

Calls for Margins.

Traders returned from their recess of yesterday apparently more concerned than ever over international politics. Many, receiving calls for additional margins, failed to respond, and dumping of these accounts in the early part of the proceedings helped to speed the retreat.

Bonds softened with stocks. Grains at Chicago and Winnipeg, the only important commodity markets open, pointed higher.

Prominent stocks in the slide included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Eastman Kodak, Dow Chemical, American Telephone, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, Philip Morris, Santa Fe, Great Northern, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Du Pont, Anaconda and International Harvester.

Losses running to more than 2 points were chalked up in the Curb for Gulf Oil, Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed and United Light & Power "A."

LOSSES RUN TO 2 POINTS IN SKIDDING BOND LIST

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP).—The bond market skidded downhill today, while market men looked over gloom-studded European news.

U. S. Government loans wilted along with the balance of the list. As the short session got well into the last hour losses of as much as 14-32nds of a point were recorded.

With buyers dogged by unpleasant European news and a none too bright domestic business outlook, selling orders came in at a fairly fast clip.

Losses running up to 2 points or more were recorded by American & Foreign Power 5s, Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s, Continental Oil 2¾s, International Telephone 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s and 5½s, Portland General Electric 4½s and Rock Island General 4s of '88.

Foreign dollar loans were uniformly lower. Belgium 6½s slipped 3¼ and Italy 7s were off 1½ at one time.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP).—War news chilled foreign exchange markets today.

As in recent trading, however, apprehension over events abroad found fuller reflection in future prices for chief European currencies. Spot rates moved narrowly, presumably under control of various stabilization funds.

The discount on the pound sterling deliverable in 90 days widened to 2⅜ cents from 2¼ but the spot rate was unchanged. The 90-day belga was quoted at a discount of .50 of a cent, against .39 of a cent Wednesday, while the spot belga dipped .01 of a cent.

The spot French franc, which has recently maintained its balance in relation to the dollar in the face of declines elsewhere, lost .00 3-16 of a cent up to late and the guilder lost .01 of a cent. The Swiss franc was narrowly improved.

The British pound remained at $4.68⅛ while the French franc dipped .00 3-16 of a cent to 2.64¾ cents.

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP).—Foreign exchange noon rates follow: Great Britain in dollars, others in cents. Great Britain 4.68⅛; 60-day bills 4.66⅝; Canada, Montreal in New York 99.46⅞; Canada, New York in Montreal 100.53⅞; Belgium 16.82; Denmark 20.90; Finland 2.07; France 2.64¾; Germany 40.20, benevolent 20.95, travel 20.95; Greece .86; Hungary 19.80; Italy 5.26¼; Yugoslavia 2.30; Netherlands 53.08; Norway 23.52; Poland 18.90; Portugal 4.25¼; Rumania .73; Spain, unquoted; Sweden 24.14; Switzerland 22.44; Argentina 31.20n; Brazil 5.90n; Mexico City 20.00n; Japan 27.31; Hongkong 28.69; Shanghai 16.18.

LONDON, April 8 (AP).—The United States dollar was unchanged from Thursday in final foreign exchange dealings today. Quoted 4.68⅛ to the pound, the rate corresponded with New York's over night sterling.

French francs remained 176.75 to the pound.

WHEAT MARKET UP OVER CENT ON FOREIGN NEWS

CHICAGO, April 8 (AP).—Wheat prices jumped as much as 1⅝ cents a bushel today, dominated by European political developments since the market's close Thursday.

An advance of 1¼ cents by all contracts during the first hour was stemmed by increased selling, but the market forged ahead again, aided by an advance of nearly 2 cents at Winnipeg. Fluctuations were the quickest and widest in some time as uncertainty over war possibilities was complicated by a Government report on winter wheat to be released Monday afternoon.

Wheat closed 1⅛@⅝c higher, May 69⅜@½c; July 68½@⅝c; corn ⅝@⅞c up, May 48c, July 49⅝c; oats ⅝@⅞c up, May 29⅝c; soybeans unchanged to 1⅜c up, May 87⅞c; rye 1⅝c to 1⅞c up, May 42⅝c; lard 13c to 18c up.

With foreign markets closed, appraisal of the Italian attack on Albania was difficult, but most traders interpreted weakness in securities as indicating concern of financial circles over tension abroad. All contracts here scored the maximum advance before any reaction occurred. Buying was general, led by houses with Eastern connections. Much of it appeared to be short covering.

Corn prices advanced as much as ⅞ cent, the May contract leading the upturn.

Oats and rye trade was fairly active and followed the advance of wheat.

Lard prices followed grain, scoring moderate gains.

The Liverpool and Rotterdam markets will open Tuesday and Buenos Aires Monday.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 8.—In the cash grain section of the market today wheat was ½c to nominally 1c higher, corn ¼@½c higher and oats ½c higher.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

Wheat—No. 3 red winter, 75c; No. 2 red garlicky, 74¼c; No 1 hard, 74c.

Corn—No. 1 yellow, 49@¼c; No. 2 do, 49c; No. 3 do, 48½c.

Oats—No. 2 white, 33c.

Liverpool and Argentine markets were closed for Easter holidays.

SALISBURY, N. C., April 8. — The St. Louis Cardinals and the Catawba College Indians squared off here this afternoon at Newman Park under cloudy skies.

About 1000 fans were on hand for one of the greatest sports events ever staged here.

The Cardinal lineup included Frank Crespi, former Shelby player and the only NC State League graduate in the major leagues. He drew a big hand from the gallery.

The Redbirds found the college pitching much to their liking and make 19 hits and 20 runs in the first six innings. They did their biggest damage in the fifth, when a three-run homer by Ducky Medwick and another good for two runs by Mickey Owen climaxed a seven-run assault.

They also scored three runs in the first, five in the second and five more in the sixth.

Davis held the Indians to seven scattered hits in the first six frames.

BARONS HAVE CHANCE TO WIN MINOR LEAGUE HOCKEY TITLE TONIGHT

CLEVELAND, April 8 (AP). — The Philadelphia Ramblers' chances for the International-American Hockey League championship rests tonight with the sharpshooting pucksters who led them to the top of the circuit during the regular season.

The Ramblers and Cleveland Barons will meet in the fourth game of their best-of-five playoff, with the Barons holding a 2-to-1 game advantage.

Cleveland's tight defense tactics have been outstanding in the three title battles. Goalie Moe Roberts, captain, shone as keeper of the Barons' net.

GORDON, LANGENBERG PLAY IN SQUASH FINAL

The St. Louis District squash racquet tournament will come to a close this afternoon at the University Club. Final round matches will be played in all three classes.

Jack Gordon will oppose Oliver Langenberg in the final of Class A, while Dick Tate meets J. Jantzen in the Class C final. Eric Newman is in the Class C final awaiting the winner of the remaining semi-final round contest.

SALISBURY, N. C., April 8. — The St. Louis Cardinals and the Catawba College Indians squared off here this afternoon at Newman Park under cloudy skies.

About 1000 fans were on hand for one of the greatest sports events ever staged here.

The Cardinal lineup included Frank Crespi, former Shelby player and the only NC State League graduate in the major leagues. He drew a big hand from the gallery.

The Redbirds found the college pitching much to their liking and make 19 hits and 20 runs in the first six innings. They did their biggest damage in the fifth, when a three-run homer by Ducky Medwick and another good for two runs by Mickey Owen climaxed a seven-run assault.

They also scored three runs in the first, five in the second and five more in the sixth.

Davis held the Indians to seven scattered hits in the first six frames.

Fairmount, to Drop Monday Racing, Must Apply for 11 Five-Day Meets

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 8 (AP).—Attorney-General John E. Cassidy in an opinion today held that race tracks could omit horse racing on Mondays.

In a ruling requested by George H. Foster, secretary of the Illinois Racing Commission, Cassidy said the Fairmount Park Jockey Club, Collinsville, could abandon Monday racing by filing 11 race meet applications, each for one week only and omitting Monday.

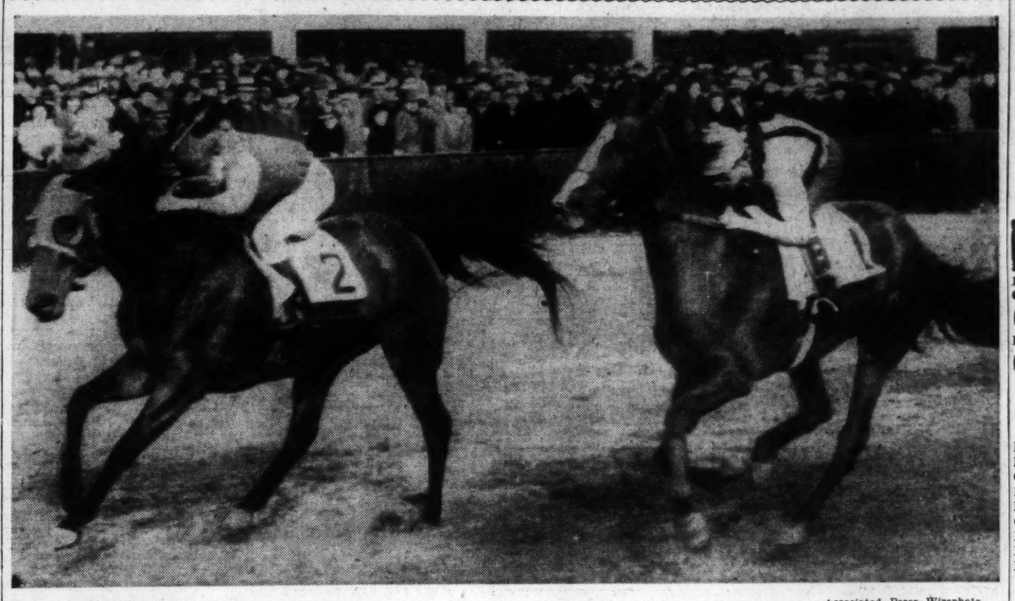

The Attorney-General said the law required that racing be on continuous days, excluding Sundays, but held that separate weekly licenses covering from Tuesday to Saturday could be issued.

Cassidy advised the commission to deny the present Fairmount track application because it asks for a single season's license, omitting Mondays of each week. He pointed out, however, that the same result could be achieved by issuing 11 weekly licenses.

Race track owners for years have sought to drop racing on Mondays on the ground that attendance usually wasn't large. A bill is now pending in the Legislature to abolish Monday racing.

The 11 weeks of racing would be divided about equally between spring and fall.

METZ, BULLA IN LEAD WITH 70'S AT ASHEVILLE

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 8 (AP).—Putting counts in golf, and because it does, Johnny Revolta, the Evanston, Ill., veteran, today was two strokes behind instead of two in front of Dick Metz and Johnny Bulla, Chicago pros, pace setters in the $5000 Asheville Open.

Metz and Bulla, with two-under-par 70's led the field into the second 18 holes, to Le played today over the Beaver Lake course while Revolta, considered one of the best putters in the game, had only a par round, because he took six strokes on the green.

Putting and a missed shot here and there also prevented Denny Shute, the former P. G. A. champion, and Jimmy Thomson, the long-slugging bond from Pennsylvania, from slipping into the pace-setting role.

Shute, tied with Thomson and two other pros at 71—one under par for the Asheville Country Club course, where the opening round was played—missed a putt of less than three feet at the last green. He also missed a few others that were costly.

Thomson, after going out in 34, took a disastrous seven at the par four eleventh hole, and missed a great opportunity to get a 69.

Tied with Thomson and Shute were Paul Runyan, the P. G. A. champion, and Gene Kunes of Philadelphia. Revolta was bracketed at 72 with Jack Toomer of Reidsville, N. C., Jimmy Hines of Lakeville, L. I., Ky Laffoon of Chicago, and Clayton Haefner of Charlotte, N. C.

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP).—Athletes and sportsmen took a sizeable chunk out of the nation's payroll in 1937.

The treasury's annual salary report to the House Ways and Means Committee showed that Mickey Cochrane, former manager of the Detroit Tigers, received $36,000 salary and a $9000 bonus. Lou Gehrig got $36,000 for playing first base for the New Yorkers.

Carl Hubbell, left-handed pitching ace of the New York Giants, received $22,500 and Hank Greenberg, the Detroit first sacker, was paid $25,000.

A former heavyweight champion, James J. Braddock received $51,983 from the Braddock-Gould enterprises.

Bill Terry, manager of the Giants was paid $30,000, while Joe McCarthy, manager of the world champion Yankees, received checks totalling $27,500.

Dickey Was Paid $18,000.

Bill Dickey—regarded by many baseball fans as the best catcher in baseball—was paid $18,000 by the Yankees.

John R. Kipatrick, president of Madison Square Garden, got $30,000.

George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins football team, received $20,000 — not from his team, but from his laundry business.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Legs and the Man.

WE are fed up on this thing of sore-arm baseball players. You'd think all an athlete needs is a wheel chair and a good arm.

But how about the legs—where do they rate in the picture?

Just now we read that Jimmy Dykes is through playing baseball. It isn't because of his eyes, his batting swing or his throwing arm. It's the legs that have quit on him.

Why does the manager of a major league team chase his pitchers round and round the park before and after their mound workout? Why does he send them to the outfield to field flies or even fill in at infield practice now and then? Only to get those LEGS in condition.

Why did Johnny Kilbane chase up and down the Woolworth Tower stairs in preparing for a title fight? He feared his LEGS might be going back on him.

The LEGS are almost as important as the arms—poor Monty Stratton can tell you—even in pitching, because an athletic power plant is no good if it lacks mobility. It can't get to the spot where it can do the most good.

It Cost Dempsey Heavily.

YOU CAN'T FORGET the demonstration of what legs mean if you saw the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Chicago. Dempsey pursued Tunney for six rounds trying to catch up with him. He arrived in the seventh and brought his man down for the long count. But the effort ruined him. His legs were "shot."

Tunney got up and peddled away from Jack. Dempsey started after him to finish the job. But his propellers weren't there. He couldn't get his heavy artillery close enough to damage his foe.

In the ninth and tenth it was pitiful. Dempsey's quivering legs hardly supported him. His leg-power was spent. He lost the fight. He barely avoided being knocked out.

And so, if you're trying anything in the sports world, even down to playing billiards, see that your legs are right.

Where We're Soft.

THAT BRINGS US to the views of Carl Snavely, Cornell's football coach. Snavely has taken the subject of legs seriously. He has ordered all members of his football squad to jack up their automobiles and quit riding around.

Snavely believes the youth of today is softening, due to riding in autos instead of walking, as our fathers did. Unless the tendency is halted, the great American leg will become atrophied and our athletic prestige injured, he forecasts.

To help the legs of his own squad, Snavely has mounted all his athletes on bicycles which they must ride every place they

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 8.—The Chicago Cubs presented their full strength, except possibly for Dick Bartell at shortstop, when they took up with the Browns this afternoon where the two clubs left off, tied at 2 to 2, in the first meeting of their series, yesterday.

Manager Gabby Hartnett was behind the bat for the National League champions at the start of the game—the first time he has caught with a batter in front of him this spring.

Clay Bryant was the Cubs' starting pitcher and Johnny Marcum went to the hill for the Browns, with Billy Sullivan behind the plate.

Pilot Fred Haney used a kid-veteran combination at the middle of the infield, Ralph Kress playing shortstop and Johnny Berardino second base.

Bell and Clift changed places in the batting order, Beau swinging fourth and the third sacker fifth.

Otherwise the teams lined up the same as in their first meeting.

It had warmed up considerably and about 1500 persons were in the stands.

The game:

FIRST INNING—CUBS — Hack doubled. Herman walked. Gleeson flied to Bell, Hack taking third. Leiber struck out and Herman was doubled trying to steal, Sullivan to Berardino.

BROWNS — Almada was called out on strikes. Gleeson made a running catch of Grace's fly. McQuinn singled. Marty drew an error when he dropped Bell's foul. Mcuinn was out stealing, Hartnett to Herman.

SECOND — CUBS—Clift threw out Marty. Cavarretta bunted safely. Hartnett flied to Almada. When Marcum made a wild throw to first, Cavarretta went all the way to third. Mesner flied to Almada.

BROWNS — Bell walked. Clift hit his eighth home run of the spring over the left field fence, scoring behind Bell. Kress walked. Berardino hit over the left field wall for a home run, scoring behind Kress. Sullivan flied to Leiber. Hack took Marcum's foul. Almada fouled to Cavarretta. FOUR RUNS.

THIRD—CUBS — Bryant struck out. Hack was called out on strikes. Kress threw out Herman.

Record 729 for Bobmeyer.

George Bobmeyer of the Silver Seals team of the Classic League bowled 729 for the highest three game total ever scored at Burton-Gillett Bowling Recreation, last night in Classic League competition. He shot games of 244, 217 and 269.

Clemson Won Two Titles.

Clemson won both the swimming and basketball titles in the Southern Conference.

DEMPSEY RATES BUDDY BAER AS LOUIS' CHIEF TITLE RIVAL

SAYS ROPER HAS BETTER CHANCE THAN GALENTO

However, Former Champion Would Not Give Nickel for Chances of Either Against Bomber.

KANSAS CITY, April 8 (AP). —Who's the best heavyweight prospect for lifting Joe Louis' title?

Jack Dempsey, who once did quite a bit of mauling himself, paused with his fork halfway to his mouth and grinned.

"You'll laugh when I tell you," he said. "But it's Buddy Baer."

"He's big," the onetime champ said. "He can hit. And he can take a beating. Some day he's going to find himself."

Dempsey should know the brothers Baer pretty well. He helped bring out Max, the playboy. He predicted Max would knock the heavyweight crown off Primo Carnera's massive head. Max did. In and out of training camps he learned much about Max's "little brother," the 254-pound Buddy who has had his ups and downs in the ring.

Here to referee a wrestling match, Dempsey said:

"Roper can't fight, but he has an outside chance—better than Galento, a thousand to one, maybe."

Louis takes on Roper in Los Angeles April 17 and Galento in New York in June.

"I used to have Galento, five years ago. He was better then than he is now. He is wide open. What if he should by some chance hit Louis? Joe is game. He can get up off the floor."

The Louis-Galento scrap will draw a $400,000 to $500,000 gate, Dempsey forecast, "and that's big money. Galento is colorful. Much has been written about him. The fight will draw big from the metropolitan area; not so good from the rest of the country."

KANSAS TRACK TEAM BEATS HUSKERS, 72-59

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 8 (AP).—Kansas defeated Nebraska, 72 to 59, here yesterday in Big Six Conference dual track meet run off on a track made "slow" by recent rains. A strong, cold north wind also handicapped the athletes.

Don Bird, Kansas vaulter, established the only record of the day when he sailed over the bar at 13 feet, 4 inches. The old mark of 13 feet, ¾-inch was set by Ray Noble, also of Kansas, in 1936.

Indians to Use Veterans

Vitt to Rely on Same Players Who Finished 13 Games Behind Yankees in American League Flag Race Last Season.

By Herman Wecke

If Oscar Vitt and his Cleveland Indians entertain any hopes of beating out the Yankees in the 1939 American League pennant race, the players who failed in the task a year ago, will have to perform the feat. Only one addition of importance was made during the off-season. That was the trade which brought Ben Chapman from the Red Sox.

Then there's a pretty big IF concerning the Indians' pitching. Johnny Allen, ace of the staff last year, had an operation performed on his elbow and only time will tell if the operation proved successful.

Manager Vitt is still figuring on Allen as one of his "big four." Mel Harder, Bob Feller and Willis Hudlin are the others. The remainder of the staff will come from Johnny Broaca, the righthander who quit the Yankees a couple of seasons back; Humphries, Drake, Dobson, Milnar, Zuber, Stromme and Sullivan. Whether one of these will be able to step in in case anything goes wrong with Vitt's four starters is problematical.

Frank Pytlak and Rollie Hemsley will again divide the catching duties, with Hegan to serve as bullpen receiver.

There will be veterans at all the infield posts with Trosky, Hale, Lary and Keltner as the regulars and Webb, Grimes and Shilling as the probable reserves.

For his outfield Vitt will select from Averill, Heath, who finished second in the A. L. batting race last season; Chapman, Solters, Weatherly and Campbell.

It's a veteran club, one which does not appear to have the power to overcome the 13-game lead which the Yankees held at the close of the 1938 campaign.

Louisiana State Golf Squad Wins From Washington

BATON ROUGE, La., April 8 (AP).—The Louisiana State University golf team swamped the Washington University Bears yesterday, 16½ to 1½, as a cold north wind kept medal scores well above the par 72 for L. S. U.'s golf course. It was Washington's second defeat on its Southern trip.

The Bayou Tigers swept the Nascu points in both foursomes and in three of the singles matches. Ted Young of Washington finished all square in the number three match with Lee Ramsel, L. S. U. sophomore, splitting the three points for that match.

Henry Castillo, Louisiana's Southeastern Conference champion, easily won the number one match from Bud Alexander, Washington, and Bert McDowell annexed the number two match for L. S. U. with a 4-and-3 victory over Charles Gillis Washington.

The St. Louis linksmen found the Bermuda grass greens here too fast to their liking, being used to greens seeded in bent grass. For this reason, the visiting golfers had trouble with their approach shots, many hitting colse to the pin only to bound over the edge of the green.

Castillo and Warren Renfro, winner in the number four match, tied in medal scores, each with 77, while Young of Washington was the only member of the visiting team to break 80.

Chamaco Equals Best Game Mark In Billiard Play

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP).—Joe Chamaco of Mexico City, who already had clinched the world's three cushion billiard championship, last night equalled the world's record for the best game by defeating Clarence Jackson of Detroit 50-19 in 23 innings in their national tournament series.

The last time a game was won in 23 innings in championship competition was 1930 by Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo.

Chamaco, who won the afternoon game from Jackson 50-21 in 35 innings and had a high run of 16, started his amazing scoring string last night with a run of six in the fifth inning and kept piling on the points. He scored in the last nine consecutive innings, getting a high run of eight in the eighteenth frame and another run of seven in the fifteenth.

FIELD TRIALS GROUP RE-ELECTS K. M. SMITH

STURGEON, Mo., April 8 (AP). —K. M. Smith has been elected president of the Missouri Field Trial Association. Other officers elected include vice-president, Frank See, Moberly; treasurer, Charles P. Palmer, Sturgeon; secretary, Gerald Jordan, Vandalia; publicity director, Claude Beeks, Kansas City, and field marshal, Granville Crump, Sturgeon.

Barefoot Ball Player Engel's Latest 'Find' at Chattanooga

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 8 (AP).

JOE ENGEL, king of jokers and scourge of the serious, came up today with a barefoot baseball player for his team in the Southern Association.

A saw mill operator friend of Engel led the boy wonder into the Chattanooga Stadium in his bare feet. "I'll sign him," Engel ejaculated. "Maybe he ain't no Feller or Hutchinson, but he don't wear shoes."

The lad is 19-year-old Durward Hammond, who grew to his present six feet in the sandy hills of Pike County, Ga. Never has he worn shoes, he declares.

"They hurt," was his explanation. "Once I had a pair," drawled Durward, wiggling his toes comfortably, but I gave them to my brother. They sure gave him trouble and he never was able to play no baseball."

Durward admits lack of shoes has caused him some embarrassment.

"I led my high school class," he said, "and we had to wear caps and gowns when we got our diplomas. I reckon my feet sort of looked funny sticking out from under that gown."

The boy from Pike County is not modest about his baseball ability.

"I reckon I hit right good and I can catch most anything that comes out," he drawled.

"Won't being barefooted handicap you?" he was asked.

"Well," he pondered, Georgia guile creeping into his eyes, "I hear there was a feller named Joe Jackson that used to play right good baseball without shoes."

CHICAGO TEAM ROLLS 3040 FOR SECOND IN A. B. C.

CLEVELAND, April 8. (AP). —The Chicago Budweisers were in second place today in the team division of the American Bowling Congress with a three-game count of 3040.

But Anchorman Joe Wilman recalled gloomily that if he had scored an eleventh frame strike last night the Budweisers would have taken first place from Old Reading Beers of Hazelton, Pa., who tallied 3045. Wilman's final delivery drew the 4-7-10 split.

The Budweisers opened with a 994 game, followed with 1019 and wound up with a final 1027. George Theel, lead-off man, and Wilman paced the Chicagoans with respective totals of 640 and 627.

"That 3040 ought to get us $600 or $700," said Wilman, "so I guess the boys will forgive me."

Freshman—Russell Insley, Maryville.

SLEEPY TOM IN FAST WORKOUT FOR THE DERBY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8 (AP). —Trainers of Kentucky Derby candidates for the May 6 classic called on their charges for speed today at Churchill Downs.

Practically every eligible quartered at the track saw some kind of action and several, particularly those scheduled for competition at Kneeneland, turned on the heat.

Woolford Farm's Technician attracted the main attention but the speed shown by J. C. Milam's two "dark horses," Decatur and Opelika and Ike Weil's Sleepy Tom came in for considerable comment.

Technician, on edge after a Florida campaign and needing but little work, did not attempt to show his foot but the Insco colt impressed onlookers in a big way as he breezed six furlongs in 1:21 3-5 over the deep, cuppy track, the first part of it in :27, :53. Trainer Ben Jones was smiling as his charge cooled off without taking a long breath to further evidence his splendid condition.

Milam, who has visions of uncovering another Exterminator, motored from Lexington to supervise "blow outs" of Decatur and Opelika. Working together at the barrier, both showed high speed in rattling off the three-eighths in :35 2-5 and pulling up a half in :49. Although head and head, Decatur, with Charlie Kurtsinger in the saddle for the first time, appeared to have the edge on his stablemate. The Milam pair will be shipped to Keeneland Sunday for tests under color.

Sleepy Tom was even speedier whizzing a quarter in :23, half in :48 and pulling up five-eighths in 1:02 4-5.

John Marsch's Lightspur continued to train impressively with a three-quarter spin in :26, :52, 1:19 breezing, as did Brown and Fetter's Tack Point, also under the direction of Roscoe Goose. The latter went the same distance in :26, :52 2-5 and 1:20 breezing.

The only long move of the morning was turned in by Dan Lehan's Fern Creek. The Playtime gelding went a full mile and was tabbed in 1:48 2-5 handily.

Mrs. B. Franzheim's Xalapa Clown had a three-eighths "blow out" in company with Gay Troubadour in :39 2-5.

Inscoelda, Herbert Woolf's crack filly, was eliminated from Kentucky Oaks consideration when Trainer Ben Jones decided to ship her to the Woolford Farm near Kansas City for a rest and treatment of a slightly "dinky" knee. Inscoelda, if she had trained soundly, probably would have been the favorite for the "Derby of the Fillies."

Day, Montanez To Meet May 22

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP). —For his gallant stand against Henry Armstrong a week ago, Davey Day, Chicago lightweight, today was given a ten-round bout with Pedro Montanez, Puerto Rican slugger, to be fought in Madison Square Garden May 23.

Promoter Mike Jacobs announced the signing and said each had agreed to come in under 147 pounds.

Day was stopped by Armstrong in 12 rounds last Friday, but only after putting up a game battle against teh lightweight-welterweight champion. Montanez is slated to tangle with Armstrong for the welterweight crown some time this summer. He has been defeated only once in three years of battling in this country, losing a decision to Lou Ambers two years ago.

New Team in 'Y' Meet.

JAMESTON, N. Y., April 8 (AP). —The Coraopolis, Pa., Y. M. C. A. basketball team has replaced Washington, Pa., withdrawn, in entries for the national "Y" championships here April 13 to 15, Franklin D. Demarest, tournament secretary, said today.

That Chamaco Record.

MEXICO HAS PRODUCED another famous three-cushion billiard player. Joe Chamaco, who is making almost as deep an impression on billiard fans as did Pierre Maupome, the first star to come to this country from south of the Rio Grande.

Chamaco, besides winning the three-cushion billiard championship this year, achieved a high run of 18, and correspondents are still writing in to know if it really is a record. It isn't.

Augie Kieckhefer, in a match game at Chicago, Aug. 22, 1917, made a run of 19.

Charley Morin, Chicago, ran 18 May 20, 1915, in a tournament at St. Louis.

But why worry about these marks in view of the fact that on Jan. 8, 1915, Willie Hoppe made a run of 25, while playing an exhibition game against Charley Peterson in San Francisco.

There's no reason why the exhibition mark should not stand, because the 1939 tournament was a shot-making affair with penalties for any effort at safety.

Probably the best average ever made at three cushions was Jake Shaefer's 10, made in a match game at Chicago.

DUNKELBERGER MEETS STRAFACI IN TITLE MATCH

PINEHURST, N. C., April 8 (AP).—Either Bobby Dunkelberger, a stripling from High Point, N. C., or Frank Strafaci, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will be the North and South amateur golf champion for a second time.

Strafaci is the defending champion, and Dunkelberger won the tournament in 1937. Both moved into the 36-hole title round of the 1939 tournament with victories yesterday.

Strafaci beat Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., 2 up. Dunkelberger defeated Charles Whitehead of South Orange, N. J., one up.

Dunkelberger, winner of the French amateur crown last summer, led Whitehead three up at the ninth and held the advantage through the fifteenth. Whitehead won the sixteenth with an eagle three and the seventeenth with a par three. They halved the eighteenth.

The Carolinian, who had shot par or better throughout the tournament, had a 71, one under par, for the round.

Strafaci, former public links champion, fought an up-hill battle. He trailed Chapman by four holes at the sixth, was two down at the ninth and squared the match at the fifteenth. He went into a lead with a birdie four at the sixteenth.

They halved the seventeenth. Then Strafaci had a fine second shot to the home green and holed a three to win. His medal score for the round was 75.

Kansas State Golfers Win.

MANHATTAN, Kan., April 8 (AP).—The Kansas State golf team opened its season here yesterday by defeating Washburn College of Topeka 14 to 4.

Capt. Kenneth Nordstrom, Kansas State, won medalist honors with a 68, two below par. Dean Kipp, Kansas State, and Worthington, Washburn, carded 69s. Walter Keith and Ben York, both of Kansas State, tied with 74s.

SMART TRICK, A FILLY, GIVEN DERBY CHANCE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8 (AP). —The Kentucky Derby is a headache to fillies, but Trainer J. M. (Jake) Lowenstein stepped out today and ranked Morris Vehon's Smart Trick right along with the best of her male competitors for the annual event May 6.

Regret, winner in 1915, has been the only filly to lead the parade in 64 runnings of the race.

But Lowenstein points pridefully at Smart Trick's 1938 record. The three-year-old miss, daughter of Cohort and Princess Edith, started ten events, won four and placed out of the money only twice. Her earnings totaled $6190. If Smart Trick trains properly, Lowenstein said, she must rate serious Derby consideration.

Derby Notes.

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Milky Way Farm stable held the first "dress rehearsal" for six of its seven Kentucky Derby nominees at Churchill Downs yesterday, but none of the thoroughbreds were called upon for any unusual show of speed.

Trainer Roy Waldron sent the nominees through easy three-quarter whirls. Giles County, son of Gallant Fox, and On Location were clocked in 1:19, best times of the group. No Competition, believed to be the outstanding colt of the stable's nominees, was timed in 1:21.

Trainer Ben Jones plans to send the Woolford Farm's ace, Technician, out for a timed trial today, with workouts scheduled for tomorrow by Mrs. B. Franzheim's Xalapa Clown and E. F. Woodward's Viscounty.

Sources close to Col. E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour farm near Lexington express doubt Bradley's Kentucky Derby hopeful, Benefactor, would run in the May 6 classic because of a filled tendon. Benefactor suffered the injury this week at the Bradley Farm.

Churchill Downs sources say that Jockey Charley Kurtsinger, who saddled two Kentucky Derby winners, would ride Steel Heels, Derby nominee, in all his tests at the Downs' spring race meeting. Kurtsinger previously had planned to retire as a jockey and later decided to ride "free lance." Steel Heels is owned by Junius W. Bell of Louisville. Railbirds said Kurtsinger also was expected to ride the Derby nominees of J. C. Milam —Decatur and Opelika—in engagements at Lexington's Keeneland

124TH ARTILLERY TEAM FAVORED TO WIN POLO CHAMPIONSHIP TONIGHT

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP). —Judging by the decisive scores which marked the opening games of the National Indoor Polo championships Wednesday night, there is a good chance that titles in all three divisions will be settled in tonight's second session.

The well-balanced 15 goal combination from the 124th field artillery in Chicago, representing the west, is a heavy favorite to snatch the senior championship. Giving away a goal in handicap to the evergreens Farm team of Red Bank, N. J., which represents the east, the Chicago Ramblers triumphed 11 to 6 in their first meeting.

In the junior division and the Sherman Memorial Trophy (low goal) competition it is the east which is favored.

Anaflame Wants Longer Route.

Anaflame, a three-year-old filly of Belair Stud, is favored to win over the longer routes this year.

Training Camp Briefs

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 8 (AP).—Joe Cronin was willing for his Boston Red Sockers to strike out a few times in batting practice today. They amazed the natives of Sumter, S. C., yesterday with their long range hitting before the game with Cincinnati and then got only four scratch hits after the contest started.

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Rookie Pete Reiser of St. Louis has tamed down some since he startled the Brooklyn Dodgers and a lot of other people by batting a perfect 1.000 his first eight times at bat. But he's still doing an even .500 for a total of 30 bases in 30 times at bat, which is just about par for any course. He got a double and a single in three chances yesterday.

NEW ORLEANS.—Eric McNair is looking more like a bargain every day at second base for the Chicago White Sox. Even if Jackie Hayes recovers from his leg operation he'll have a hard time breaking into the lineup the way McNair has been hitting and fielding.

ORLANDO, Fla.—Finally getting alarmed at the failure of First Baseman Jimmy Wasdell to shape up as a satisfactory replacement for Zeke Bonura, sold to the New York Giants, the Washington Senators are reported casting around for someone else. Bert Haas, property of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is getting a lot of attention.

GREENSBORO, N. C. — More about the Cincinnati Reds second base troubles: Last week Manager Bill McKechnie was ready to ship Eddie Joost back to the minors. Then Lonnie Frey hurt his thumb and Eddie went into the lineup. Now he's hitting and fielding so well Frey may have to nurse his thumb a long while.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—The New York Yankee tourists are kidding Jake Powell and Joe Gallagher about writing ahead to opposing managers asking them to use left-handed pitchers against the world champions. New York has faced eight southpaws in five games and Marse Joe McCarthy, following his announced plan, has started Powell and Gallagher in the outfield against all southpaws. Meanwhile George Selkirk, who gets his chance against righthanders, moaned, "I never knew there were so many southpaws in the world."

Bud Rice Has 300 Game.

Bowling in the Brunswick sweepstakes last night at the Saratoga alleys, Bud Rice turned a perfect 300 game. In a doubles match he started off with 227, then got his perfect score and finished with 215 and 165.

POLICEMEN CHASE AND CAPTURE MAN IN STOLEN TRUCK

Fugitive Runs Machine Off Road Into the Mud and Is Seized When He Falls Into Ditch.

8-MILE PURSUIT AT HIGH SPEEDS

Prisoner, in Hospital With Injuries, Is Booked as Richard Sueme—Various Charges Filed.

Three policemen chased a man in a stolen truck eight miles over St. Louis, Clayton and Richmond Heights streets early today, finally capturing him when he fell into a drainage ditch, breaking his hip and elbow, after abandoning the truck when it mired in a lot at 1401 South Hanley road, Richmond Heights. Ten shots were fired during the chase.

The prisoner, booked as Richard Sueme, 27 years old, is held at City Hospital for investigation and on charges of larceny of a motor vehicle, careless driving by excessive speed, three violations of electric signals and one violation of a major stop sign. At times Sueme and his pursuers drove at speeds up to 85 miles an hour. Police reported he admitted stealing the laundry truck from a public garage at 4130 Olive street.

The chase began at 2 a. m. when Probationary Patrolman Lewis Burg, off duty and riding in his own automobile with his wife and Miss Marjorie Engler, 640 North Geyer road, Kirkwood, saw Sueme drive through a stop light at Grand boulevard and Market street. Burg followed as Sueme drove west, going through a red light at Vandeventer avenue and a stop sign at the entrance to the express highway.

The chase continued the length of the express highway and over a loop of streets in the southeastern corner of Clayton. When Sueme almost ran into a Richmond Heights police car on Highland terrace, Patrolymen Oliver Brueggerman and William Hummel joined the chase.

Sueme failed to make a turn at Dale avenue and Hanley road and drove into a field, continuing about 500 feet until his car stuck in the mud. Then he ran, with the policemen in pursuit, firing as they ran. He finally fell into the ditch and was captured.

Sueme told police when he gets drunk he steals automobiles. In 1935 he received a five-year sentence on a criminal assault charge and served 22 months at Algoa Reformatory. Arrested 10 other times, three times on charges of automobile theft, he was released nine days ago when an automobile theft charge was nolle prossed. He gave his address as 7040 Dale avenue, Richmond Heights.

FORMER BANK DIRECTOR WANTS $687 NOTE CANCELED

M. L. Downs Says That in 1931 He Surrendered Stock on Which It Was Issued.

M. L. Downs, former director of the Hamilton State Bank, filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday to enjoin Deputy State Finance Commissioner Oscar Wibbing, liquidating agent for the bank, from prosecuting a suit for $687 on a note in Justice of the Peace Robert Walker's court.

Downs said he gave the note in 1929 for five shares of stock to qualify him as a director at the suggestion of the bank's president, Thomas Burke. It was agreed orally, he said, that interest on the note would be paid from dividends on the stock. When he resigned as a director in February, 1931, Downs asserted, he surrendered the stock certificates but did not get his note.

His petition asks that the note be canceled. Judge Harry F. Russell issued an order to show cause returnable next Thursday.

TWO KANSAS CITY STRIP TEASE PLACES CLOSED PERMANENTLY

Judge Approves Injunctions Against Winnie Winkle and Chesterfield Clubs.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8 (AP).—Two of Kansas City's "hot spots" widely known for their "strip tease" offerings were closed for good yesterday.

Circuit Judge T. J. Seehorn made permanent temporary injunctions against the Winnie Winkle and Chesterfield clubs after a hearing on writs requested by State liquor inspectors who charged the places were "common nuisances."

Operators of the two clubs did not appear.

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP).—A total of $6,817,211,309 in coin and currency was in circulation outside of the Treasury and Federal Reserve banks on April 1. This was an average of $52.07 per person. A month earlier, the average was $51.44 and a year ago $40.88.

E RIVAL

SMART TRICK, A FILLY, GIVEN DERBY CHANCE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8 (AP). —The Kentucky Derby is a headache to fillies, but Trainer J. M. (Jake) Lowenstein stepped out today and ranked Morris Vehon's Smart Trick right along with the best of her male competitors for the annual event May 6.

Regret, winner in 1915, has been the only filly to lead the parade in 64 runnings of the race.

But Lowenstein points pridefully at Smart Trick's 1938 record. The three-year-old miss, daughter of Cohort and Princess Edith, started ten events, won four and placed out of the money only twice. Her earnings totaled $6190. If Smart Trick trains properly, Lowenstein said, she must rate serious Derby consideration.

Derby Notes.

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Milky Way Farm stable held the first "dress rehearsal" for six of its seven Kentucky Derby nominees at Churchill Downs yesterday, but none of the thoroughbreds were called upon for any unusual show of speed.

Trainer Roy Waldron sent the nominees through easy three-quarter whirls. Giles County, son of Gallant Fox, and On Location were clocked in 1:19, best times of the group. No Competition, believed to be the outstanding colt of the stable's nominees, was timed in 1:21.

Trainer Ben Jones plans to send the Woolford Farm's ace, Technician, out for a timed trial today, with workouts scheduled for tomorrow by Mrs. B. Franzheim's Xalapa Clown and E. F. Woodward's Viscounty.

Sources close to Col. E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour farm near Lexington express doubt Bradley's Kentucky Derby hopeful, Benefactor, would run in the May 6 classic because of a filled tendon. Benefactor suffered the injury this week at the Bradley Farm.

Churchill Downs sources say that Jockey Charley Kurtsinger, who saddled two Kentucky Derby winners, would ride Steel Heels, Derby nominee, in all his tests at the Downs' spring race meeting. Kurtsinger previously had planned to retire as a jockey and later decided to ride "free lance." Steel Heels is owned by Junius W. Bell of Louisville. Railbirds said Kurtsinger also was expected to ride the Derby nominees of J. C. Milam —Decatur and Opelika—in engagements at Lexington's Keeneland

CIRRHOSIS OF LIVER FOLLOWS PITUITARY REMOVAL IN DOGS

"Unexpected" Discovery Made During Tests; Cause of Such Change Is Not Known.

RICHMOND, Va., April 8 (AP). —Discovery that cirrhosis of the liver follows removal of pituitary glands in dogs was reported yesterday at the closing session of the American Association of Pathologists.

The discovery was announced by Dr. Irving Graef of New York University, Dr. Joshua Sweet of New York and Dr. Irving H. Page of Indianapolis, who had experimented in the removal of the pituitary gland to study hypertension and other general effects on dogs.

Dr. Alvin J. Cox of San Francisco said his research indicated that a decrease in the storage of vitamin A attended cirrhosis of the liver, while Dr. Phillip Rezek of Miami, Fla., said he thought hot spices eaten by mothers in tropical climates might induce cirrhosis.

Dr. Graef said that in examining dogs which survived from nine months to two and a half years after removal of the pituitary glands they "unexpectedly" found cirrhosis. The cause could not be attributed to any known factor.

The warrants were issued by Justice of the Peace R. F. Panchot on informations filed by Prosecuting Attorney W. Oliver Rasch of Jefferson County.

Brickey, formerly president of the school district and presiding judge of the County Court, also is at liberty under bond on a Federal warrant charging him with making false entries totaling $88,590 in the ledgers of the Citizens' Bank of Festus, of which he was deposed as president last September.

FREIGHTER HITS ROCK, CREW OF 29 RESCUED

British Ship Carrying Scrap Iron for Japan Wrecked on Washington Coast.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 8 (AP). —The British freighter Temple Bar smashed heavily against a rock off Carroll Island, near the Washington coast, early today. The crew of 29 was rescued after hastily abandoning ship.

A Coast Guard crew landed 23 of the men at Quilliyute Station and reported the rest were "safe on the beach.'

The Temple Bar sailed from Port Everglades, Fla., March 14 for Yokohama, Japan, and was bound up the Washington coast to Comox, B. C., to refuel. It had a load of scrap iron aboard for Japan. L. W. Tucker was master.

The ship was high and dry on a jagged rock but was described bf Coast Guardsmen as a total loss. It had sent out SOS messages at 4:05 a. m.

Boatswain's Mate Eric Reutercrona said:

"Some of the crew had gotten ashore in their lifeboats and some were drifting near the wreck in lifeboats when we reached them.

"The Temple Bar is lying now wth her bow slightly out of water and her poop deck awash. I think it will go to the bottom."

Lloyd's listed the Temple Bar as a ship of 4291 tons, built in 1928 at Glasgow, Scotland, for the Temple Steamship Co. of London.

LOSS OF BABY TEETH NOT DUE TO PRESSURE, DOCTOR THINKS

Says He Has Disproved Theory That Growth of New Formations Is Factor.

BOSTON, April 8 (AP).—Dr. H. H. Shapiro of Columbia University said today he had disproved the usually accepted theory that children lose their baby teeth because of pressure by developing permanent teeth.

"It's still a mystery, and mother's problem," said Dr. Shapiro, who demonstrated to the American Association of Anatomists the technique he used, "but at least we have eliminated pressure as the principle causative factor in the resorption of 'milk' teeth."

Kittens which still had their baby teeth were treated so that the germs controlling the developing permanent teeth on one side were killed. The factors supplying the permanent teeth on the other side were left untouched.

"But the baby teeth on the operated side as well as on the unoperated side eventually shed away," said Shapiro, "indicating that the developing permanent germ is not the causative agent in the shedding of the temporary teeth."

CRIDER BROS. COMMISSION CO. AT KANSAS CITY SUSPENDED

Barred for Year as Marketing Agency; Accused of Collecting Resale Fees on Livestock.

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP).—The Department of Agriculture said today it had suspended the Crider Brothers Commission as a marketing agency at the Kansas City (Mo.) stockyards for one year, effective April 18. The notice of suspension accompanied an order issued under the Packers and Stockyards Act that the company cease certain alleged violations of the act.

The department's action was taken as the result of a hearing held in Kansas City last October. The department said the hearing showed that the company had collected, in violation of the act, resale commission on shipments of livestock sold to buyers in Ohio and Illinois during 1936 and 1937.

Also Against Service to Protect Americans or Their Investments in Foreign Countries.

Tabulation of the results of 535 of the questionnaires circulated on Army Day by the Peace Council of Greater St. Louis to determine under what circumstances citizens were willing to serve in the armed forces, indicated today that a great majority opposed aid to European democracies or protection to Americans in foreign countries or investments there.

Only a few more were willing to defend the Philippines or Guam.

If England and France were attacked by Germany and Italy, 31 would fight, 88 were doubtful and 387 were opposed to participation. If Russia were attacked by Germany and Italy, 22 would fight, 29 were doubtful and 472 would not willingly bear arms. As to service in an international police force to resist aggressor nations, 108 would serve, 120 were doubtful and 277 were opposed.

U. S. HOUSING EXPOSE HUSHED, SAYS WITNESS

People's Lobby Head States Mrs. Roosevelt Was Stopped on Radio.

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP). — Benjamin C. Marsh, spokesman for the People's Lobby, told a Senate Labor Sub-committee yesterday that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was stopped when she started to sohw that land speculators and building material profiteers were blocking low-cost housing.

Marsh testified on a proposed $800,000,000 increase in funds for the slum clearance and low rental program under the United States Housing Authority.

He said the President's wife, in her radio talks, started an expose of interests blocking low-cost housing "but was hushed up." He did not say who hushed her.

Marsh charged that the present program, carried on under legislation introduced by Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, was "a hypocritical and costly swindle" that would give all public projects a black eye.

"It does not benefit the poor devil who actually needs low-cost housing," he said. "It just bails out the land speculator and helps the various combines who profiteer in building materials."

Spokesmen for labor organizations urged passage of the legislation.

Michael Quill of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, said his group wanted a $5,000,000,000 slum clearance-low rental program, and so naturally favored the $800,000,000 increase.

He said union labor "wanted low-cost housing, low-cost food, low-cost clothes, and low-cost medical services."

Senator Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana, presiding interrupted to ask if labor would be willing to take a lower wage on an annual basis to aid the government housing program. Quill said labor "would cooperate if enough funds were voted."

Similar support for the legislation came from an American Federation of Labor spokesman, Harry C. Bates, who testified that more more than 1,000,000 building and construction mechanics were unemployed and that the USHA program promised employment for 330,000.

COOK COOS

By Ted Cook

Grandfather, like all of us, is a creature of habits good and bad and while quick to perceive and criticise shortcomings in others, he looks upon his own derelictions with placid unconcern.

For example, during the past few years, he has developed a curious idiosyncrasy. Grandfather simply will not turn a faucet completely off. Whether he is fundamentally opposed to the principal involved in this operation or merely nonchalant remains a psychological mystery. He does not and will not go in for hydraulic engineering.

Consequently, grandmother, in a quiet, patient way, dedicates herself to the humble task of following in grandfather's wake and attending to faucets.

She tried evangelism for a while—preached little sermons to grandfather on the matter of faucets.

These preachments were models of calm logic.

But grandfather would change the subject almost before grandmother got started. Or he would shame her with counter-charges. He contended that any woman who left lights burning had better think twice before complaining about a dripping faucet. Besides, he would not admit that he ever left a faucet dripping. As a matter of fact, he says, if a faucet dribbles, it is probably the fault of the faucet. If anyone discovers a dripping faucet, turn it off. If it won't turn off, call a plumber. But do not bother grandfather about such matters. He said he had been listening to nonsense for 50 years and was getting sick and tired of it. He was entitled to a little peace and quiet.

"Albert," grandmother finally said, "I will never speak to you again about faucets—but you are acting like a small boy."

A puzzled, hurt look came into grandfather's eyes. He went into the bathroom and slammed the door. He shaved and emerged and asked to have a shirt laid out. Grandmother meekly fetched the shirt. Grandfather put it on, took his hat and coat and walked off down the street.

A few minutes later, grandmother went into the bathroom. She found the faucet running full stream.

Teaching Child True Reverence For His Maker

Don't Train Him to Regard God as a Sort of Santa Claus.

By Angelo Patri

"AND please God, bless everybody and bring me a new carriage for my doll. Amen. . . . Do you think I'll get my carriage tomorrow, mother?"

"Well, maybe. If you are a good girl. God loves good children and likes to send them the things they want."

I am certain that the mother of this little girl, like the countless mothers of countless little children, wanted to teach faith in God, love of God, fellowship with Him throughout life on this earth. I am not certain that this kind of teaching, this attitude toward God as a Santa Claus, will do anything of the kind.

Teaching a child faith in the love and goodness of God is something that gives the boldest pause. We do not know very much about God. We have no words to express the feeling that we have toward Him. Our conception of Him varies according to our experiences and training. We stumble along blindly, reaching toward Him, never quite touching Him, never quite realizing Him.

The best that most of us can do is to murmur, Our Father, and leave the understanding, the reasoning, the explaining out of the matter. We cannot reason about God. We believe in Him, or we don't. We cannot reason out our faith. We have it, or we don't. We cannot explain our trust. We rest in it or we languish in our lack of it. And this we try to get to the minds and hearts of little children.

I believe that every child should be taught to reverence God and His work. And I would teach children that all other children, of whatever color, of whatever land, of whatever religion, were the work of His hands, the children of His care, equally with them. Children, in their true spirit of brotherhood, readily accept this.

I believe, too, that children ought to learn to pray, but not for gifts of toys, not for material things. In days to come, when life has taught that there is a world within this world where the things of the body are of little moment and the things of the spirit are real, when they have suffered by achievement, by success, by failure and ignorance, sufficiently to learn that he who is least is the greatest, they will understand that they pray, not for material things, but for the things of that place where there is neither sorrow nor tears, neither giving nor taking, for Godgoodness, is All there is, and all they need or want.

Santa Claus prayers are responsible for a loss of faith in childhood oftener than people think. "Give us this day our daily bread," is conditioned by "Man does not live by bread alone." "God bless me," is conditioned by, "Little children, love one another." Prayer is the soul's sincere desire. Better let a little child's prayer be just that.

Angelo Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Doctor's Views on Human Beings and Guinea Pigs

Opposes Idea of a Utopia Created by Controlling Men as We Do Animals.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

I SALUTE the class of 1938 of the university high school of the Ohio State University. They have produced a year book which departs from the ordinary stereotyped class year book in that instead of photographs of smug groups of fraternities and sororities, they have made a serious attempt to evaluate themselves and their education.

It is called "Were We Guinea Pigs?" It was written in answer to a sneer they often heard during their high school course, "You are the guinea pigs of progressive theories of education."

They describe their background, what kind of people their parents are—conservative (57½ per cent), liberal (22½ per cent), between conservative and liberal (12½ per cent), and radical (7½ per cent). Politicians might take notice; I believe that this is a very fair average of American opinion. The incomes of the parents were mostly from $4000 to $6000 a year. Thirty-five per cent of the class did not know what their parents' incomes were.

Then they go on to describe their school experience in learning to use language, and in expression through art, with mathematics in their daily life, with putting their minds in order, with health and sports, with governing themselves. It's certainly a well-rounded experience.

They think they have profited by it and they don't want to be guinea pigs.

Well, thank God for that, say I.

No, my dears, you happen to have assumed species character of a different order—you are Homo; I don't subscribe entirely to the sapiens part. Homo is pretty illogical, and certainly not docile and obedient and experimentable like guinea pigs.

Every once in a while some biologist enthusiast blossoms forth with the idea that Utopia could be created if only we could control men and women as we do domestic animals. We could select their parentage and breed them so that we could eliminate all the hereditary disease taints, and make a strong, intellectual, well-disciplined race, some destined to forge the anchors, some to pin the gossamer.

We would inoculate them against all the infectious diseases early in life, without any protest from minority groups. And then we would train them for the work each had to do for the state.

It all sounds fine, but then we wouldn't be Homos at all. No, let's not be guinea pigs. Guinea pigs have no hot, tempestuous fires sweeping across their placid lives. They never drafted a bill of rights, never protested the arrogance of authority. No guinea pig ever wrote an "Ode on a Grecian Urn," or longed to "sail beyond the sunset and the stars." This curious compound clay, man, did all that.

Maple Sundae Sauce

Three-quarters cup maple syrup, six tablespoons cream or evaporated milk, six tablespoons chopped pecans, one teaspoon vanilla. Cook syrup and milk until the soft-ball stage. Remove from fire, add nuts and vanilla and cool until lukewarm. Serve in sherbet glasses over vanilla ice cream.

Bacon and Pickle Sandwiches

A nice little sandwich for the school boy who comes home to lunch. Two chopped dill pickles, six slices crisply fried bacon chopped finely, one-quarter cup salad dressing. Blend together and spread between slices of rye bread.

TOMORROW'S

By W

For Sunday, April 9.

THE week ahead has its share of minor irritations, but it is also full of opportunity to do good and constructive works; make it count by being alert to all openings. Today: Plan ahead, be social; but slow down the brain speed in evening.

Controlling the Ignorant.

An individual, a city, a State or a nation can be controlled only by those powers which it can understand. A person of low development and low ideals, such as those of physical force, threats and selfishness, cannot be controlled by sweet thoughts and loving kindness. It is sometimes necessary to spank the baby. Explaining the philosophy of love to a wild horse doesn't get results.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, till next birthday, is ambitious, maybe inflamed—care with superiors, elders, watch own health, no carelessness. Don't force Oct. 20 to end of year—pay old debts. Danger: April 15 to May 1; and Jan. 18-Feb. 5, 1940.

For Monday, April 10.

Steadying and testing vibrations

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I WAS interested in the letter of "Mrs. L.," and thought possibly my experience might be a help to her and others. A separation of two or three years, or even months, might have saved my home. My wife made me feel as though I was always in jail. This probably is the experience of "Mrs. L." But I want to say to her that neighbors and friends usually hinder, rather than help in family difficulties, though a thoroughly disinterested party, preferably a good psychiatrist, can advise more successfully. Usually it is the little things that get on one's nerves; for instance, my wife did not go to a dentist for 12 years (a broken tooth, always very prominent) grew worse and worse to look at and she would not go, although I was earning $50 a week and there was no excuse for neglecting this. Finally she was so disfigured by this that I hated to introduce her to my friends.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope, for personal reply.

Another more grievous habit of hers was the continual deviation from the truth; just unnecessary little "white lies" about matter-of-fact things. And I couldn't reconcile myself and would get mad, nag and criticise. The result was that both of us had good arguments for divorce.

Since I was the better emotionally balanced of the two, I should have insisted upon a separation until we could see each other's point of view. The best confidential advice, in such cases, is not too expensive. Be sure that reason is not outwitted by the emotions. MR. N.

—O—O—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WOULD YOU please give me some information concerning airplanes? I would like to know some advantages, disadvantages, pay, offices one can hold, and requirements for flying. I would like this information before April 11, because we have to write about our vocation in grammar class. DEE.

I'm afraid space limitations prohibit me from giving you all the information you require. Advantages of aviation as a vocation would include the fact that it is a young industry and one which welcomes young men. Disadvantages would include the relatively hazardous nature of the work. However young men who want to fly seldom question the advantages or disadvantages, so keen is the desire within them to follow this vocation. For offices, requirements, and the like, I suggest that you have someone drive you out to Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field where someone can give you this information first hand. A letter of inquiry to authorities there might also help if it is impossible for you to go there.

—O—O—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A woman who would like to know much about different books. But I have not much time. Could you tell me where I could find some of these stories of the books in short? ANXIOUS.

If you mean reviews and excerpts of current books, and opinions of them, you will find short reviews in some of the daily papers and quotations and excerpts in the various "Digest" pamphlets. Ask at the book stores and book departments and also go to the library and let them suggest to you how you may find this kind of reading, without having to go through the whole volume.

—O—O—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE BEEN reading your column for as long as I can remember. I am 19. I, too, would like to know how to spend my spare time pleasantly, but when I look around and see so many people needing real help I feel selfish. I have two perfectly good hands and God's love to back me up. So I want to help. I would like to work at one of the Social Service Centers or with some other charitable organization. Like that other lady who went to the orphanage and cut the children's hair, I can do this, too, as this is my line. I want to come into direct contact with the people and their problems. DOROTHY.

—O—O—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I READ YOUR column every day and enjoy it immensely. Could you please tell me if I am eligible to join the United States Navy? My parents are alien, although I was I was born in this country. LOU.

It would be best for you to get first hand information about this at the U. S. Navy Recruiting Office, 1114 Market street; telephone GArfield 0360.

—O—O—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I ALWAYS READ your column and enjoy it very much. You have helped so many others to find homes for dogs or cats, I wonder if you could help me. About three weeks ago, a very nice dog appeared in our neighborhood. A neighbor and I have tried to find a home for him, but without success, and I hope someone who sees this will need him. He is male, fairly large, light brown in color and friendly. MRS. D. H. R.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Wynn

For Sunday, April 9.

THE week ahead has its share of minor irritations, but it is also full of opportunity to do good and constructive works; make it count by being alert to all openings. Today: Plan ahead, be social; but slow down the brain speed in evening.

Controlling the Ignorant.

An individual, a city, a State or a nation can be controlled only by those powers which it can understand. A person of low development and low ideals, such as those of physical force, threats and self-ishness, cannot be controlled by sweet thoughts and loving kindness. It is sometimes necessary to spank the baby. Explaining the philosophy of love to a wild horse doesn't get results.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, till next birthday, is ambitious, maybe inflamed—care with superiors, elders, watch own health, no carelessness. Don't force Oct. 20 to end of year—pay old debts. Danger: April 15 to May 1; and Jan. 18-Feb. 5, 1940.

For Monday, April 10.

Steadying and testing vibrations today; don't attempt more than you can perform, especially if promises to superiors are involved. Beginning of highly emotional feelings (till next Monday); see and sympathize with other viewpoints.

Avoid Tempting Others.

A man may have no evil desires against society and still find it pays to keep a lock on his front door. This is because to the lower forms of human life the desire and practice of peace appears as tempting weaknesses. It is part of the life of wise people to avoid tempting those beneath them; he who tempts another is contributing to his delinquency. This works out on all social and moral levels.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if this is date you celebrate, contains more personal problems and limitations, plus friction, in 1939 than after end of next February—look forward, push for results. Danger: April 17-May 3; and Jan. 9-Feb. 6, 1940.

Tuesday.

Smooth out the wrinkles of disposition and mutual interests; better in p. m.

North-South Guilty of Poor Bridge Bidding

One Overemphasized Trap Pass, While Other Was Too Timid.

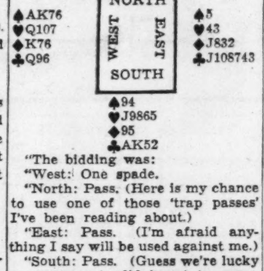

By Ely Culbertson

"DEAR Mr. Culbertson: Recently you published a letter in your column from a grateful correspondent who told how he had saved the day by making a play that you had written about the week before. This must have been a gratifying experience for a teacher. Here is another side of the picture, which illustrates, if anything, Alexander Pope's couplet:

'A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring.'

"All of which is prompted by an adventure in duplicate. North was a woman who had evidently been sipping lightly from said spring. I sat East.

"West, dealer.
"East-West vulnerable.

"The bidding was:
"West: One spade.
"North: Pass. (Here is my chance to use one of those 'trap passes' I've been reading about.)
"East: Pass. (I'm afraid anything I say will be used against me.)
"South: Pass. (Guess we're lucky our opponents didn't get to game. We ought to get a top on this one.)
"But South was wrong. We went down four but got a clear top on the board, since every other North-South pair got to game and made it, which, with the game bonus, far submerged our opponents' 400.
"If you should publish this letter, please use only my initials, otherwise North, who has given up trapping, may take up shooting.
"W. R., Buffalo."

North's trapping ambition in this hand was a shade optimistic. As I have frequently pointed out, there are times when a player holds too much to justify the hope that the opponents will go on and hang themselves. North's spade holding alone made it inconceivable that East would be able to raise spades and, as for any other "hold open action" on East's part, North's strength in hearts and diamonds made this almost equally doubtful.

The fact is that for trapping to be successful the trapper must not carry too big a gun. In this case North would have been much better advised to have entered the bidding immediately with a double. Technically, of course, this double would be for a take-out and there would be no chance that South would be able to leave it in. But at least North would have taken the first step toward reaching a game of his own. After such a double South would have the values for a jump to three hearts and, although this might possibly encourage North to the point of trying for a slam, he should avoid that danger by bidding three spades. Then, with South's next bid four clubs, North would see the great "duplication of values" and would be satisfied with a mere four hearts, which, of course, would be a laydown.

But although I disapprove of North's trapping action with this particular power house, I must point out that it should not have been fatal. South should not have dreamed of letting the vulnerable opponents play one spade. Far from feeling that he could save a game by passing, South should have considered that one spade might easily be made, whereas he himself could make two or three hearts or clubs. Moreover, from South's point of view there was a chance that North actually had been "trapping" when he passed and South certainly should have given his partner a little protection by reopening the bidding. South could not quite stretch his values to the point of doubling (which would have been manna on the desert to North), but he certainly could afford to reopen the bidding with two hearts. In the final analysis, therefore, it was not North's overemphasis on trapping as much as South's timidity that led to the horrible North-South result.

Newport's Labor Trouble

By Inez Robb

NEWPORT, R. I., April 8.

THIS high-falutin' summer resort, the last wild-life sanctuary of New York's rich and ritzy four hundred, is agitated to its core by a classic struggle between capital and labor.

Carpenters, who have been at work on the reconstruction of Bailey's Beach—destroyed by the September hurricane along the Atlantic seaboard, have laid down their tools and walked out on the job. The carpenters' demand of a wage upping from $8 to $9 a day has brought this colony, far removed from the marts of vulgar commerce, face to face with its first labor troubles.

Not since the two dozen carpenters laid down their hammers and saws the other day have the contractors or the blue-blooded committee in charge of the beach's reconstruction been able to wheedle the workmen into returning to their labors. Mayor Henry Wheeler has been asked to arbitrate the strike which is holding up work on the renaissance and reformation of the most exclusive swimming hole in this hemisphere.

Unless work is soon resumed at the beach, probably the most famous bathing strand in this country, it won't be ready for debutantes and dowagers on July 1, as planned. So far the carpenters are unmoved by the fact that, come the summer season, the Vanderbilts, Astors, Belmonts, Goelets and Oelrichses will have no proper place to dunk themselves in the blue Atlantic unless the new bathing pavilions and cabanas are speeded to completion.

Francis Taylor, son of the enormously wealthy Mrs. Guthrie Nicholson and bridegroom of the former Lesley Bogert, is in charge of Bailey's reconditioning. He and architect Auguste Noel, son-in-law of the dowager Mrs. Cameron McR. Winslow, are in a swivet over the current impasse.

Members of the swank governing committee, which includes Robert Walton Goelet and his cousin, Robert Goelet, William Goadby Loew, and Willing Spencer share their headache.

Nothing is sacred any more.

The Lesson Jesus Christ Taught Men

No Page in History More Quickening Than Record of His Courage.

By Elsie Robinson

TO live courageously, so courageously that one rises above all obstacles—if that were all the Easter story taught us, that would be enough. But Jesus taught an even deeper, lovelier lesson to bewildered men—He taught us how to die with dignity.

There are so many deaths, beside that last, obliterating blow . . . so many tombs, beside the ones we build with stone. And we so rarely meet them gallantly!

In seven years, the doctors say, our bodies pass and are renewed. The person that you were in 1932 has long been resting in the earth—or tossed upon the wind. But such death is the least of all the deaths you die. Hourly, some part of each of us meets death. Some cherished vanity is wiped away . . . some foolish prejudice is blotted out . . . some fond illusion wrecked.

These are the helpful deaths, for which you are soon grateful. But there are others, harder far to take. Bitter losses . . . ruthless betrayals . . . cruel and unfair blows that kill as surely as the bullet or the knife. Shocks . . . losses . . . disappointments . . . disillusionments. . . . No evening sees us as we were at dawn . . . no hour passes but some part of us is gone. . . . Each day we die . . . and face some narrow tomb.

You can see those deaths happening . . . in yourself . . . in others. You can see people crouching in their tombs. Tombs of grief and shame, hate, fear and resentment. Endless deaths. Endless tombs.

How many of us meet them heart high, head on, as brave men and women should meet a painful change? Christ met His death that way. There is no page in all our history more quickening than the record of His courage as He faced that final week. Blow after blow, His deaths advanced upon Him.

His disciples failed Him. Judas betrayed Him. Those who had cheered and welcomed Him a Sabbath since, now sneered or looked the other way when He passed by. Cruelest of all, was His own mounting fear that all He'd worked for would be wasted and wiped out. The lash, the crown of thorns, even the awful cross, were not such ghastly torture as that dreadful thought . . . that truth itself had been an empty dream!

"My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me!" Long before His heart broke with that piteous cry, He had faced every death a mortal man may know. Yet held His head still high!

And all that He gave us fades beside that final gift—of death with dignity! To lift the dead . . . and heal the blind . . . and clean the leper . . . and drive the devils out . . . these were great wonders, never to be forgotten. But to face discouragement quietly . . . and betrayal gently . . . to accept misunderstanding without resentment and stupidity, without contempt . . . to take these little deaths with quiet courtesy. . . . This was the greatest lesson which He could have taught our weak humanity.

I wish I could face my deaths—just for one, short day—with that serenity with which my Christ faced His.

Tidbits

Apples cored before paring are much less likely to break apart.

Add a little vanilla to the iced chocolate drink for a smoother flavor.

Brush the yolk of an egg over the top crust of the pie and it will make it bake brown and flaky.

Salt and vinegar added to the water when poaching eggs will give flavor and at the same time set the white.

If there is just a small amount of leftover hash, serve it is a base for poached eggs, first toast, then hash, then poached eggs. Delicious.

Corroded Tops

If the German silver tops of your salt and pepper shakers have corroded and look anything but attractive, why not replace them with plain, enameled ones, that are most inexpensive and can be purchased in either white, ivory or colors that correspond with your china?

Answers to Questions on Social Usage

Card-Leaving Custom Seldom Observed Now Except in Official Circles.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

JUST how important today is the convention of leaving cards at teas and receptions, or sending these cards if one can't actually be present? I mean, in some places is this a custom still practiced? We here never leave cards; in fact, I don't own any. But we are soon to make a new home in a city which ranks among the largest in the country, and I am wondering if we are likely to find there a more rigorous following of conventions that I have always more or less connected with yesterday.

Answer: Such card leaving is each year becoming less important. In fact, its observance is followed by very few outside of diplomatic or official circles.

Dear Mrs. Post: You speak of black fruitcake for wedding cake in your book. Is it always black fruitcake? I think people around these parts usually have a light cake. In the little wedding boxes, is the cake sliced or individual cakes?

Answer: Throughout the greater part of the country, including New York, wedding cake is black fruit cake—always. But in certain communities, white almond cake (also called bride's cake) is sometimes served as the only wedding cake and sometimes offered in addition to the fruit cake. Pieces of cake are cut to fit into the individual boxes, wrapped first in oiled paper and then in tin foil. The boxes are tied with white ribbon.

Dear Mrs. Post: I've been told that before smoking in the house of someone who was not an intimate friend, a guest should ask if he, or she, had any objection. I've wondered if this doesn't put the host (or hostess) on the spot and in a position that would make it almost impossible to say "Yes, I do object very much," even if he'd like to. Shouldn't the rule be that if the host or hostess or any member of their own family is not smoking, that goes for the guests, too?

Answer: No, this is not important to the question. But there are certain definite rules, such as: One should never smoke at table when no cigarettes, matches or ash trays are included in the table's setting and no cigars or cigarettes are proffered. Ordinarily, everyone may smoke after meals without asking excepting in the house of very elderly people, but no one should smoke or even ask permission to of hosts who are known to object to tobacco in any form.

Raft Balks at Being Cast for Dillinger Role

Actor Says Gangster Parts Allow Him No Social Life in Hollywood.

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, April 8.

WARNERS made a premature announcement the other day to the effect that George Raft would play the role of John Dillinger in a movie to be based on the life of the most notorious outlaw of modern times.

Raft's ever-present shadow and "protector," the slender "Killer" Gray, dutifully handed the actor a copy of a local trade paper and pointed out the item. Raft read it, and his face went red through the pasty make-up he wore for a role in the prison picture, "Each Dawn I Die."

"There they go again;" he commented bitterly. "Why can't they take me at my word? Ever since I came into pictures seven years ago, I have been fighting off roles such as that. Nobody has even consulted me about playing Dillinger. If they had, I would have told them what I thought—in short order. I wonder why they think I walked out on that other studio."

Raft was referring to his long series of quarrels and walkouts at Paramount, climaxed recently by his official departure from that lot.

Those close to Raft say fear of what his friends and the public will think has blasted his chances for an outstanding career in pictures. Had he shown a disposition to play the game as movie casting directors outlined it, he might have established himself as the outstanding gangster-villain of the movies. After that cold-blooded, coin-flipping portrayal of the underworld henchman in "Scarface," he was in a position to write his own ticket.

But, instead, Raft fought doggedly to get heroic assignments. Why did he do it?

"I'll tell you," said George. "After those first few terror parts I played, I went to New York for a visit. My relatives and a lot of my friends regarded me strangely. Unconsciously, they must have concluded that those movie characterizations reflected my real self. We probably don't realize how deep an impression a movie character can make—on some people."

Raft said he soon discovered, too, that a career of screen villainy would allow him no social life, no peace of mind in Hollywood. If he went out to a night club or any public function, he was in danger of being dragged into a fight by some drunken bully anxious to show his cronies that he could whip the movie bad man.

"Insults were heaped on me wherever I went," said Raft sadly. "Sometimes I would have a woman companion with me and this would make it doubly embarrassing. Often we've been forced to walk out of places rather than take chances of becoming involved in a brawl. I couldn't very well stand up and fight. The newspapers would get hold of the story and readers might get the idea the movie bad man was trying to show off. And there was always a chance that some big guy might knock me into kingdom come and put a stop to the picture I was making at the time.

"I've been a good six years fighting this battle out. I've got by connection with one studio as a result. But I feel better. I haven't compromised my conscience and I'll quit pictures and turn to something else before I play Dillingers or anything approaching them."

STATE MAY ASK COURT TO REVOKE O'MALLEY DEAL

Insurance Superintendent to See Whether Federal Grand Jury Report Discloses Fraud.

LEGAL QUESTIONS NEVER SETTLED

Validity of Collecting $10,000,000 Excess Premiums in First Place Is Among Them.

TUCSON, Ariz., April 8 (AP).—Ray Lucas, State Superintendent of Insurance of Missouri, said here tonight that he may ask the United States District Court at Kansas City to set aside the notorious O'Malley fire insurance rate compromise of 1935. Before deciding on this, he said, he will await the final report of the Federal grand jury which yesterday indicted former Superintendent R. Emmet O'Malley and Boss Tom Pendergast on income tax evasion charges.

If the grand jury's report discloses fraud in obtaining the settlement, Lucas said, it will be in order to ask for a reopening of the case by the three-judge Federal court which sanctioned the compromise.

The Insurance Department filed a motion last month in Kansas City Federal Court for appointment of a special master to conduct an accounting of the transactions of the late Charles R. Street, distributor of the $460,000 mystery fund of which Pendergast and O'Malley are alleged to have received $315,000 and $62,500 respectively.

"If the Kansas City grand jury's report gives us all the information we need as to Street," Lucas said, "we may ask for dismissal of the motion."

JEFFERSON CITY, April 8.—Reopening of the O'Malley compromise in Federal Court at Kansas City, which Superintendent of Insurance Lucas is expected to request, may be asked for on the ground that the compromise constituted a fraud on the court.

A series of interesting legal questions has arisen as the result of the indictments and the speculation over reopening the rate case. They follow:

Was the 16 2-3 per cent increase of fire insurance rates collected legally? The Insurance Department is considering this now.

Could the Court compel the companies to make restitution in full to policyholders of the refunds the companies received under the compromise stipulation?

If the deal was colored through and through with fraud and the three-Judge Federal Court which handled the case was deceived, what are the Court's powers to protect itself?

If the parties to the stipulation perpetrated a fraud on the Court, did they not also commit grossest contempt of court, for which the Court might have power summarily to punish them?

Acceptance of Compromise.

Judge Kimbrough Stone of the Circuit Court of Appeals and Judges Merrill E. Otis and Albert L. Reeves of District Court at Kansas City constituted the three-Judge bench, which accepted the compromise in February, 1936. They had in the record before them only the representations made by the 137 stock fire insurance companies participating in the case, in which O'Malley joined as the presumed representative of the interests of the policyholders.

Approval by the Court of the stipulation by which the companies got back the lion's share of about $10,000,000 of impounded premiums at the expense of the policyholders did not constitute final judgment in the litigation. Final judgment has not been entered and the case remains on the records; distribution of the impounded funds by a custodian still is in progress.

There never has been final judicial determination of the companies' legal right to collect the increased premiums. Joseph B. Thompson, Insurance Superintendent before O'Malley, had suspended the higher rate schedule. The companies, in 137 separate injunction suits which, in effect, were consolidated in Federal Court at Kansas City, sought to restrain the Insurance Department from interfering with collection of the increase. Temporary injunctions were issued, which continued in force until the compromise seemingly ended the controversy.

None of the three Judges who passed on the compromise can be quoted as to the Court's powers to protect itself if fraud is shown. The
